Get Down and Get Dirty Playing like the Big Boys

Ever since we can remember, summer has been filled with fun and games. Now that we've grown, it still hasn't changed!

After a year of school, we have to have something to unwind with. Summer sports are the best way to go. Kay-ki students have become athletes of summer. While their friends are busy lying on the beach, they are working hard to reach their goals

Doing their best, whether it's tackles, goals, pirouettes, or home-runs, our summer athletes are out there having fun.

Junior Ray Cook's favorite part of summer sports is "the high you get when you know you have done your best and the satisfaction of beating the other team." So what are you doing next summer? Try a new sport! You don't know what you're missing!

Below: "What... How do you play this game," questioned a confused Ryan York.

Wet n' Wild Style Summer fun

Summer has come, bringing with it the high tides of wet 'n wild fun. The students of Kay-Hi have left the hot classrooms and had a splash of summer. Although it was fun and wet, some students got watered down and left town.

"I went to Idaho and went tubing down a river," says senior Darlene Etten.

"I went swimming in glacier water. Holy cats, it was cold!" Junior Angie Buel replies.

Some Juniors visited college campus' and tested the waves there, but others were comfortable in their home town current, working during the summer. Going from an ocean of school to an ocean of work can be tiring, but hopefully they had fun, too!

It's over and school's back. Talk about an undertow! Sorry to say, but it's time to put those wet suits away and acquire our land legs again.

Right: Is there something that you're not telling us? "I just love my summer job," exclaims Frances Leach.

Joey Stewart shows us how it's done.

What is the Best Way to Torture an Underclassman?

"Try duct taping three freshmen together and then taping them to the railing of a balcony at a hotel in Anchorage. Then soak them with super soakers and tickle them to death. From personal experience, I know it's the worst." Sophomore, Manika Daddag

"During a Cross Country trip I was hog tied with medical tape and thrown in the men's bathroom on the ferry." Senior, Desi Day

"You know, I seem to remember cleaning a beautiful creation of mustard and barbecue sauce off the senior square with a tooth brush when I was a freshman. The whole school was there." Sophomore, Anna Snyder

"Throwing them in the pool in front of the school. It was fun, though." Sophomore, April Thomas Right: Students speak out. Jos Govaere and Adam Benky vote no on Proposition One.

You Can Run But You Can't Hide School Days are Here Again

Summer was fun, but the days of screaming alarm clocks and nagging homework are back. Books to carry, deadlines to meet, no more time to kill. From food fights to late nights, high school is in full swing.

Did we really miss it? "Yes," says Amy Urban, "Because I'm just counting down the years until I'm out of here."

While some of us can't wait to get it over with, others, like Frances Leach, don't really care, "as long as I'm not fishing."

Whether or not you like it, summer is gone and school is here. Tan lines and memories of beaches start to fade while new activities begin to crowd our time. Don't blink, because before you know it, you won't know where the year has gone. Just remember, these are the good 'ol days!

Top: "Just take the picture and get it over with." Emily Moore and Mandy Davis try to eat their lunch.

Gaining Independence

Seniors Battle it Out

On July fourth, 1776 America gained its independence and we broke away from the typical way of life as we knew it.

For Kayhi seniors, celebrating tends to mean torturing freshmen to show their dominance.

The class of 1995 marched through the parade with duct tape and ropes, much like the soldiers of old marched with their guns and other weapons.

The seniors from years past had planned an ambush, but the seniors of "95" had a plan... to run! Seniors jumped from the float, dragging helpless freshmen with them.

Seniors also celebrated in other ways; as Chet Thompson said, "I saluted the flag."

No matter how you celebrate, it all means your voice and your choice in our country, and in your life.

Senior Afterlife

When the bell rings...

Hangin' out, cruising, sleeping in and vegging. This is how most of the seniors spend their free time. From bad weekends to the best, our seniors shared some of their most memorable high school weekends.

Allegna Machado described a weekend she will never forget, "when Christy and I were supposedly arrested in the parking lot across from Subway for indecent exposure in a stolen car!"

Some weekends were more costly than others. Shannon Larson shared her worst weekends: "The weekends that I have had bad experiences with my truck-all thirteen of them!"

We all know that seniors can get pretty wild and crazy. Frances Leach told us, "my friends and I went for pizza. We took the pizza with us, got carried away, and threw it out the window, where it landed in a car full of people!"

These stories show how much fun we really did have at Kayhi. Overall, our high school experiences have been the best years of our lives... or at least the most interesting!

Back to the Future

Seniors share their big dreams

Ask the Seniors what they're going to do with the rest of their lives and you might not get an answer. Most Seniors don't even know what their next class is! But there are always those few who already have their grandchildren's names picked out!

Desi Day, for example, has vowed to model her life after TV reporter Murphy Brown's!

Some have ambitious dreams of a high-paying job in a huge metropolis, and some just dream of simply being happy. Then there are those who aren't sure where they'll be a week from now, much less a few years! Nicole Brown shared, "I will be at the top of the corporate ladder bossing men around!"

On the other hand, Megan Hooker plans on being President of the United States and establishing world peace. You never know where you might find the class of '95 ten years from now!

Dreaming of the day he will become a janitor, Ken Smestad gets a head start.

The End of the Line

When You Have Had All That You Can Take.

What happened to the young, care-free days of no homework and lots of after school horsing around? Some people remember when juniors like Stormy Stewart "Played war with neighbors, made little bows and arrows, and got in trouble for hitting them with rocks."

Suddenly we find ourselves surrounded not by barbie dolls and G.I. Joes, but textbooks and five page assignments all due the very next day. How could our lives have suddenly become so amazingly busy and stressful? Gone are the smiles, laughter, and joy. Instead we find furrowed eyebrows and pens flying across paper. Juniors work frantically and pray that the assignment will earn them enough points to raise that grade.

Lonna Murray told us the most stressful thing in school is, "Hooomewooooork!"

Unfortunately, this appears to be only the beginning. Hold onto your pens and paper, because there's a whole lot more coming our way!

Your Ticket to Freedom

And Hopefully the Only Kind You'll Ever Receive!

Everyone finally has their own set of wheels. No more waiting on our parents or the school bus. We are finally free to go where we want to go and do what we want to do.

You have survived the driving test and can now say what you've dreamed of saying ever since you got your permit. "I told my Mom to get out so that I could drive by myself," declared Christy Parrott.

Amazingly, the big pile of junk dumped outside of the school suddenly transforms into a big mean driving machine, ready to take you wherever you desire.

Just remember to keep your eyes on the road. Jill Wallin can tell you what happens when you forget to watch where you are going. "While watching a bar fight, I ran through a red light!"

Juniors at Kayhi finally get to experience the sweet taste of freedom and independence. They are spreading their wings, or should we say wheels, to new and unexplored horizons.

Get Ready! One More Year

Just when we thought we were almost there, our requirements changed. Besides our thirteen standard credits and nine elective credits, we will now have to pass the math and reading competencies, five paragraph essay and have a hundred work hours completed in order to graduate. All the classes before us had it easy. What made them choose our class?

Christyne Alderson thought, "It's to get us ready for the real world."

The junior class rose to the top so quickly, and it seemed like just yesterday we were trying to decide what classes to take as freshmen.

Now we are deciding what colleges fit our plans in the future. Passing the requirements is a main goal for lots of people who plan on graduating. The requirements may seem easy to some, but may be challenging to others.

Kasey Kelly proclaimed, "It took me ten or twelve times just to pass the math competency!"

These tests and essays will definitely help you out in the real world.

Above: "I will get this problem, even if it kills me," says frustrated Joel Azure.

Saved By the Bell Let Freedom Ring at 2:45

5...4...3...2...1...RING (actually it is more like ding, ding, ding)! School is out for the day. There's a certain free smell to the air. Now that school's out, a lot of us go home, play sports, go to some kind of activity, or just go into our own little worlds.

"I go home and do my homework and stuff," Trevor Meacham tells of the simpler things in life.

"I play basketball," Clint Lough tells of one of the more popular activities.

"I veg out," Aaron McDonald told us plain and simple.

Well, whatever we end up doing after school, we always, as sophomores, find a way to make it interesting.

Nothing Stays the Same I Don't Wanna Grow Up

Yes, we're sophomores! The Class of '97 is moving up in the world. We're no longer freshmen. Some sophomores are optimistic, others aren't, and some are just plain confused.

"You know more people and don't get picked on that much," Ira Hardy said of the things that sophomores have over freshmen.

Although there are many good things about being a sophomore, there are a few bad points. "There's more work," Terra Simevog said of a low point in sophomore life.

Some of us aren't too sure about being a sophomore. "It's weird because you're just there: not highest, not lowest," Brad Palmer told us.

Above: Taking it one day at a time, Caspian Brand likes where he is.

Locker War

The Battle of the Shelves

Now that we're sophomores we should get certain privileges, right? Well, obviously getting your own locker isn't one of them. Sharing isn't unfamiliar for the sophomores who had to share last year, but it still makes for a tight and messy situation.

"We should put three freshmen per locker, if that is what it takes," Sean Cusack suggested a solution to this problem.

"It drives me up the wall," Matt Beimler said of his limited area by his locker. It's not too fun smashing into your locker partner and all the others sharing next to you.

"I want my locker partner out," Amy Dorsett exclaimed.

Bumpercars Come to a Complete Stop

Move over and get off the sidewalks! The sophomores are behind the wheel. The time has come to get our licenses.

We have put our parents through some frightening experiences while driving.

"Well, it wasn't my fault, but this guy ran a stop sign and almost killed us!" Sean Cusack denied any fault.

"I came within an inch of hitting a telephone pole," Mike Ostrom shared as he remembered a proud driving experience.

"I almost rear-ended a Pinto going 80 m.p.h. in a Subaru," Erik Sarvola says as a warning to all drivers. The sophomores are taking over, so be cautious while driving, or you may meet one.

Great Expectations!!

What This Year's Freshmen Think of Kayhi!

When this year's freshmen first came to Kayhi, they had a lot of expectations- some were good, some were bad.

For the majority of the students, Kayhi was better than expected.

"I was surprised at how nice the seniors were," said Tiffany Stone.

David Herby commented on how nice he thought the building was. The freshmen in general had only two complaints about the new building. At the beginning of the year, the freshman hall was totally packed before and after school, and between classes. But with the new hall open, it's no longer a problem.

Another observation made by Mickey Stokes was that "the school looks like a big bathroom!"

Overall, though, reactions were positive. "Kayhi isn't that bad," Jocelyn Laguidao thoughtfully decided.

Spencer Crockett and Jeremy Schultz pretty well summed Kayhi up by giving it an enthusiastic "Two thumbs up!"

Above: "Did you hear about his friends Brian Pyles, Ryan Criswell, and Jeremy Schultz. the freshman that got initiated," says David Herby to You'll Never Believe It... Mother Knows Best!!

Ahhhh! Growing up. We all do it. There is no way around it. We also know that along with growing up, there are problems; tons of em! So to go with the predicaments we face, we are given advice. We get advice from friends, fathers, bosses, people we don't even know. Everybody! But the advice that sticks the longest is the advice from our dear sweet mothers.

Kara Brand will always remember her mother saying, "Don't talk to strangers," which is a popular saying we've all heard before.

Individuality is a big part of our lives that we all want to fill. Tiffany Stone's mother advised her, "to be her own person, don't follow everybody else.

Last but not least, Meghan Browns' mother gave her advice on guys (some that all girls should use). She told her, "Never let a man treat you like a possession."

All advice is smart advice when it comes from your mom. So when she dishes it, sit down, relax, and take it all in. Because remember, MOTHER KNOWS BEST!!!!

Sibling Rivalry

Freshmen Senior Siblings Battle It Out!

When a freshman walks down the senior hall, nothing much happens. But if that new face happens to be the sibling of a senior, who knows what evil might befall him.

Senior Danita Pilcher says of her freshman brother Zack "I like having him around because I get to embarrass him."

Natalie Burnett's older sister Karen says, "It's fun having a little sister in the school 'cause I get to keep an eye on her." Natalie also liked having Karen here because she "has someone to look up to."

But for some freshmen, having a senior sibling can be a nightmare. Take freshman

Amanda Machado, who's sister Allegra enjoys her company because she gets to spy on her. And then there was Spencer Crockett, who told us how he liked having a senior brother because "all of Taylor's punk friends try to beat on me, but then I pound on 'em.."

These are just a few of the poor freshmen who have to deal with seniors not only at school, but at home, too.

These aren't the last of the freshman/senior siblings, and the battle between freshmen and senior siblings will continue on. But at least after this year, we won't be lowly freshmen.

Hooray!

Need a Little Excitemen-T? Snap Into Cross Country!

Desi Day and Mike
Matson.

What are you doing this August? Run cross country! No feeling can compare to the rush of adrenaline before the start of a cross country race. It begins as soon as you wake up and start stretching out tense muscles. When you arrive at the course, stress increases. Your brain goes numb as the announcement of "runners on your marks" pierces the air. Stepping into the starting lane, warm-up clothes are tossed aside. Encouraging words and last minute reminders are whispered down the line of apprehensive team members until the shot of the gun jolts you from your nervousness and into the race.

We started the season struggling with injuries and with a new coach. Rick Collins' philosophy of "run till you puke" encouraged us all to go for the impossible. From getting lost in Klawock, or being stranded at the Petersburg ferry terminal at 1:30 in the morning, to staying up all night after a race, this year was filled with more than enough merriment to make up for the grueling 12 mile practices. "The undertaking of a new action brings new strength!" So what are you waiting for? Snap into cross country!

Our Fittest Fighters

Swimming For Excellence

For many weeks swimmers have been gathering early in the morning preparing for their meets. Torturous work outs and grueling dives push our swimmers to the max. Back and forth, up and down, around and around they move, straining all their muscles until they are fit and healthy. Freshman Matt Caskey said, "I have improved my time by ten seconds." Doctors say that swimming is the most strenuous work out you can do. Senior James Thompson said he has been swimming since second grade. Wow! He must be in shape! And I'm sure the rest of the team is, too. Diving is also a big part of our swim team, and they work hard at perfecting their roles and flips. So all of the swim and diving team definitely deserve more credit than they get for all the hard work they put in. So the next time you see one of our swim team members, Congratulate them !!

On the Spin of the Ball Girls JV Do it Again!

Hip, Hip, Hooray for the girls JV team! After an incredible season, they finished with a bang. "Things are looking really good for the girls Basketball team in the next couple of years," says coach Trevan Walker.

With a record of 2 losses and 12 wins (even beating Juneau!), the girls JV team are top notch gold. They're also fairly young, which means that they'll only get better, eventually, becoming a solid swish and a killer slam dunk.

"Determination is the key to playing basket ball well," screams Meghan Brown. Only the people who work through the hard practices and dedicate themselves to the team will come out on top. From the performance of this season, obviously the girls JV team knew that determination is the key

United We Stand... Divided We Fall

United we stand, divided we fall. In basketball unity is needed in order to work well as a team.

"We're all basically sophomores, so it's easier to stick together," sophomore Ryan Hanis said.

"Last year we played half of the season coachless and that helped us play better together, which carried into this year," sophomore Andy Berntrou explained.

"We're a young team, so if we don't play well together, we'll get our butts kicked," sophomore Danny Anslinger said.

The Junior Varsity basketball team has shown that they are a very united team. They have shown it through their team record and play on the court. So look out for this team in the future.

Show Some Spirit Varsity Girls!

The Kayhi Varsity girls basketball team has done very well this season, but they have had their ups and downs. Nothing can stop the girls from trying their best and showing their greatest.

The players will always have some funny moments that people will remember them for.

Sophomore Bernadette Johnson said, "It was during an away game that I forgot to bring my basketball shoes!"

Some embarrassing things may look more fun to others than to the person it just happened to.

Senior Danita Pilcher said, "Kara Fordney and I ran smack into each other during a game."

There can be some hilarious moments out on the court, but everyone can have their own fun while playing basketball.

Basketball on the Run

Boys Varsity Challenges the Court

The pounding of feet echoed throughout the gym. The crowd faded out as concentration set in. The ball hooked the rim and fell in. Everyone slowly let go of their breath. It's basketball season!

What does basketball mean? To senior Chet Thompson, it's "running, having fun, and shooting." Besides running all over the court, our guys run all over Southeast.

When our guys are on the road, what do they like best about traveling? Junior David Mitchel says, "Housing with someone and knowing they have trust in you, and playing in front of a crowd that wants you to lose."

So grab your coat and Kayhi spirit and hurry on down to the gym because it's time for basketball!

Spirit, Let's Hear It Make Some Noise

What happens when you have two coaches and ten cheerleaders? The '94-'95 cheerleading season was a new experience for all that not everything was going to go as smoothly as they had hoped, the cheerleaders lent a helping hand to smooth over the rough spots.

Sophomore Karen Youngblood said, "The year was different and fun."

Coping with the new ways and ideas of the coaching staff, the cheerleaders learned to adapt and change from their old ways.

Sophomore Crystal Lammers described the year, "As a year to try new things."

While the coaches got used to the idea

"Make some mistakes. Learn from them. Have fun! Respect one another," Coaches Sheri Clement and Ingrid Voetberg described their philosophy.

It's obviously been a learning experience for all. It's been a time from breaking out of the old and trying something new. Well, no matter what has happened overall, it's been a good year.

Stressed to Perfection

K-Highlites Dedication Pays Off

If there is strength in numbers, this was true for the K-Highlites. The dedication of the girls this year made the team strong performers. Although dedicated, the girls had a few complaints about this sport.

Sophomore Lisha Bernaldi said, "I didn't like the stress put on me." The need for accuracy and sharpness is a very stressful part of dancing. Other complaints were about the uniforms. Senior Dana Bass sarcastically remarked, "Oh, the spandex. It's just great." But for every complaint, there are always many more good things. "We have a good group of girls who work together, and around tournament time, you see how all the hard work pays off," commented Junior Jill Wallin.

All their hard work sure did pay off. The K-Highlites were really big crowd pleasers. So when you see them come out on the floor, sit back, relax and enjoy the show. Because the girls in sequins and smiles are ready to dazzle you.

The Power of One Kayhi travels to Sitka for S.E. Tournament

Pop Quiz: What do Basketball, Drill Team, Cheerleading, Pep Club, Pep Band, and femmies all have in Common? Answer: SOUTH-EAST TOURNAMENT! This year's tournament was in Sitka. Many towns came together to compete for #1, but throughout the competition, friendships were formed.

Junior Ben Butterfield says, "South east gives people a chance to see old friends from different cities and meet new girls."

"It was fun. I really liked it. I'm glad I got to go," freshman Rhiann Golden reminisced about Southeast.

Although some of our teams did not reach the rank they desired, they tried their best and will always be SUPERIOR in Kayhi's heart.

No Wimps Allowed Takedown Fever

Looking up from the mat is not exactly the best place to be, and our wrestlers do their best to keep their backs off the mat. What is it that makes them want to wrestle anyway? What compels them to forcing a person down to the mat, and trying to keep them there for three seconds? Sophomore Jason Bennie said, "It shows skill and strength. It's also the best way to get in shape."

The takedown, reversal and half nelson sound like roller coasters, but these are all different moves our wrestlers do to pin their opponent. Freshman Eli Stewart said, "I've had three reversals in one match."

In answering the earlier question, there is only one solution. Wrestling is a hereditary sport. Senior Joel Bernaldi proved this by saying, "My father was a wrestler, too." So keep on developing your skills and we will see you next year.

100% Pure Style JV Volleyball

This year the girl's JV Volleyball squad is showing their style. Our girls won eight out of twelve games at the first jamboree of the season held in Sitka. This was a chance for the players to actually see what they had together as a team.

"It was really fun and we did pretty good," said freshman Vivian Sweet.

Sophomore Lisha Beraldi agreed. She thought playing volleyball "was a blast!"

Coach Amber Updike, who was along on the trip, was glad to see the girls play as a team. She feels that the JV squad has a lot of promise.

Working as a team, the girls showed their best. Keep up the good work!

Fifteen Points Varsity Volleyball

With a whopping score of 1000 points, a person could pass their SAT's with flying colors. For 100 points, someone could earn an A+ on their English exam. But the only place one could win anything for 15 points would be a game of Varsity Volleyball!

This year's Volleyball squad has earned a lot of respect. They've worked hard and played their best. Senior Lisa Crawford states, "I really enjoy travelling with the squad. We form friendships through the time we are together during competitions."

"I had a blast participating with this year's team," says senior Jennifer Duff.

Participating in volleyball takes a great deal of team work. With cooperation and determination, we can rise above the rest. Good job girls!

Working Minds Help Community

Rotary Interact and National Honor Society are two groups that devote their time to help the community and fellow students. "National Honor Society is dedicated to serving others, especially their peers," said senior Stephanie Hughes. To be a member of this elite group, you are judged on community involvement, leadership and academic achievement. Although they got off to a late start, they still managed to help with the annual Christmas party that is sponsored by Parks & Recreation.

Rotary Interact is also recognized for their volunteer work such as trash pickups, working at the soup kitchen, and making holiday cards for the elderly. Sophomore Carey Guthrie joined "because I like to help others." The community relies on attitudes like freshman Tiffany Stone who said, "I like helping out my community."

Both Rotary Interact and National Honor Society are organizations that bring out the best qualities of high school students.

The World is a Stage

We are merely actors on it

Life is a stage. Well, at least for a portion of the student population. Drama is a way to express yourself while learning.

"It's a way to express my inner child," senior Will Arbaugh said of being in Drama.

"You get to move away from reality for awhile. It's a nice break," junior Carrie Finnegan explained why she's in Drama.

"I feel it helps with self esteem, public speaking, and if you have a computer for a brain," junior Taylor Ridenour tells of a few things you learn.

Everyone has a different reason for participating in Drama. "It's really fun," sophomore Jenny Brown exclaimed.

Yes, life is definitely a stage. Hey, it could be worse.

There For You

To be Wild or To Lend an Ear

What do Pep Club, Pep Band, and Natural Helpers all have in common? They're here to support the various students at Kayhi. The Pep Band and Pep Club help support the various teams of Kayhi by cheering the spirits of the student body. They attend all the games and get wild and crazy at times.

Laura Kinunen said, "I like to be weird and crazy. Being in Pep Club, you can do that." And Pep Band?

"It's a chance to play modern music and have some fun at the same time," Evan Sustarich told us.

Natural Helpers give the students at Kayhi someone to talk to.

Of Natural Helpers, Krystal Howard said, "It's good to help people share their feelings."

Well, no matter if you need someone to talk to, or if you just want to have some fun with others, there are plenty of places to turn to.

Oh Sweet Harmony

blowing, the beating, off key harmony. What do these all have in common? Instruments of band.

Through the halls of Kayhi, you can hear them echoing as they prepare for one thing, a concert. Along with preparing, though, some pretty unusual things can happen.

Junior Kristina Neumeyer said, "The funniest thing about band is Mr. Bjur."

Ben Currall remembers a time during band class, "When Gabe was leaning back in his chair and it tipped over. I got blamed for it."

Junior Robbie Pickrell remembers when his dickey fell down when he was trying to crash the symbols.

No matter what has happened, when it comes time for the concert, the Kayhi band always performs outstandingly.

Perfect Harmony More Than Meets The Eye

Being in choir is not all fun and games. They must do strict exercises before they can make use of their delicate vocal cords to make the perfect harmony of music.

These workouts consist of breathing, moving their mouths, and standing up straight and tall. Sounds tough, doesn't it? Like all things, though, there's more than meets the eye.

Choir, being an elective, is enjoyed by the majority of its singers. "I like the fact that you can make music without the aide of an instrument," says senior Mike Matson.

Junior Lisa Albrecht has a totally different view of choir. "I like choir because it is an easy 'A'."

Freshman Sarah Harford says it in just a few words, "I love to sing!"

From enjoying choir to getting an easy "A", everyone agrees that it is a nifty class.

Looking To The Future FFA, JA, & Aviation

The future holds the answers to many questions. The people who belong to Future Farmers of America, Junior Achievement, and the Aviation Club get a sneak preview.

"If you decide to take some kind of business course, you'll understand how a business is run better than someone who didn't. JA is good because you learn hands-on instead of just taking a class," said sophomore Ruben Pimental, who is a member of the 1st Bank branch. Erik Sarvela summed it up as the "best thing since baseball."

Senior David Watt, who is in the Aviation class, says "The most memorable part of the class is Hamlin's stories. I don't plan to be a pilot, but it's fun to be there."

Mr. Tillotson, who is an advisor for FFA of America, thought that it was a good program because "it strengthens the confidence of students, in themselves and in their work."

These programs are helping students prepare for the future, but without the help of our advisors and teachers, we would be much further behind.

Our Memories What We Have Done

Memories... We all have them, good, bad, funny, and embarrassing. There are many chances throughout our high school years to create memories that will last a lifetime.

When junior Curtis Sellers was asked to share one of his memories he responded, "Going out to dinner with all my friends, and then not being able to decide where to eat. I'll never forget the little corns!"

Junior Ben Sumpter's memory was not quite as happy. "I had to move from my home town, Homer, Alaska."

Others, like senior Jarrid Brendible will look back at high school and remember the funny moments. "I will always remember the day that I found shrink wrap covering my whole truck."

Of course, we can't forget about all those utterly embarrassing moments that humiliate us all through our high school careers. Junior Krystal Howard feels that she "made a fool of herself," when "I was walking home for lunch, and there was a group of people walking behind me. I wasn't watching where I was going, and I tripped over a rock and got grass stains all over my pants."

So many things happen each day that will stay in our minds forever, and, like the pieces of a puzzle, we can piece them all together to create a long lasting memory of all our high school years.

Dismissal to Freedom

One twenty-four. What kind of time is that to get out of school?

It's a parent's nightmare and a student's dream.

Most of us look at early dismissal as an excuse to get out of school, but those who use this privilege properly know that they stay in school and get help from teachers.

According to senior Katie John, "I would like to do things with my friends, but I know I should use the time to get help on school work."

Some of us linger after school visiting with friends and peers, while others rush off to join the adult world in the work force.

"I run errands and go to work," senior Bethany Vaught informed us.

People use this time to get things done for their own benefit.

Junior Joe Beardlee is an example, "I work on Lucy" (Lucy is his car)

We all use this time differently and to fit our own needs. So whether we work, eat, or sleep, everyone thinks that early dismissal was and is a good decision. We'll have to see if it stays.

For Better or for Worse

Riding along in my automobile, my baby beside me at the wheel

The changing of age, from drive-ins and disco to movie rentals and raves. Over the years dating has taken a few turns.

How far have we come and is the turn for better or for worse? Women now a days are demanding equal rights more than ever! Don't worry guys! The pressure's off of you to always make the first move.

As junior Tessa DeLong pointed out, "Women are more liberal. It's okay for a woman to ask a guy out or pay."

"There are so many things we have to worry about. AIDS is a big concern," stated senior Karen Burnette.

Through June 30, 1994, 226 Alaskans have been confirmed to have AIDS. Of these, 139 are known to have died.

Mr. Crockett reminisced about a time when, "kids in the 50's went steady for long periods of time. Everything was territorial."

Instead of steady couples, we are surrounded by groups of friends. The days of one on one dating are in the past, but are captured for always on movies like Grease and Shag.

So whether you choose to follow the ways of our elders, or dare to be an individual, may you always experience butterflies in your stomach and the thrills of dating. HAVE FUN!

Where is everyone?

When 2:46 rolls around, where does everybody go?

Our once packed halls transform into echoing silent tunnels. The bumper to bumper parking lot is now a rollerblader's haven. When school lets out, where does everybody go?

Some students, like sophomore Nicole Deal, take part in after school activities, "I go to Cross Country."

If students from Kayhi could do anything they desired after school, what would it be?

Sophomore Troy Ertzberger would be bonding with the birds in the beautiful sky, when he replied, "I'd fly."

Every student in Kayhi has some sort of homework in one class or another, whether it be a lot or a little. What we really want to know is if it's your first priority.

Senior Jason Short helped answer this question when he stated, "Absolutely, positively, my life evolves around homework!"

So if you are one of those poor souls who doesn't have anything to do afterschool, GET WITH IT! There's a billion things you can do. You just have to go out and find them.

A Time For Fun Halloween

Halloween is a time when you can cast all your cares and frustrations aside and concentrate on having fun. That is just what the students of Ketchikan High School did when they walked through the doors as anything from maids to monsters.

We all had our own unique ways of celebrating, from going to the dance to dressing up and trick or treating. Here's what a few of us did to keep ourselves busy.

Ginny Moriarty, Freshman; "I put silly string all over Beau Hasty's truck."

Sarah Ohmer, Freshman; "I went trick or treating."

Lannetta Munson, Sophomore; "I dressed up as a mime."

Alyx Lesko, Sophomore; "I went to the mall and had the duty of handing out candy to little kids."

Matt Cooke, Senior; "My church had a party for the little kids. I helped to make it all work out smoothly."

Whether you sit at home on Halloween, or go out and have a good time with your friends, Halloween is a time to relax. Remember, though, that October 31 is also the time for witches and goblins to come out and try to scare us, so be careful!

Good Times and Bad Times That's What Friends are For

How do the students at Kayhi define a friend? Orla Kearney explained, "A friend is someone who makes you smile and is always there when you need a shoulder to cry on."

No matter how you define your friends, they are what help us through. Friends are there to cheer you up when you're feeling blue, or to shout those extra words of encouragement when you need them the most.

The things friends do for you will never be forgotten, even when we've moved and lost touch. The memories will be there to help you remember.

When we asked sophomore Alyx Lesko what the greatest thing a friend ever did for her was, she replied, "They told me I was myself, and that was alright."

But how do people pick their friends? By their looks? Who they hangout with? Personality? If not these, then what? Senior Gabe Abajian filled us in on this one. He said, "If they're themselves."

A friend doesn't have to act any certain way or dress any certain way, because a good friend always knows what they're like on the inside.

Race For The Space

The Students Fight for a Place to Park

What's the worst thing that half the students at Kayhi have to face in the morning? Parking. The one parking lot outside the high school just isn't enough for the drivers of this school. So the students have to think creatively to find a new spot. From parking on the hill, to up and over the curbs, the students always find somewhere.

Senior Autumn Beesley told us her favorite place was "the motorcycle spot."

Well, even though the students have to think creatively, there can be a price to pay for this. Many students have come out to their cars and found a little white piece of paper stuck under their windshield wipers or maybe even the vehicle they thought they had driven to school was gone. From ticketing to being towed, they have had to deal with this problem, but still use their imagination.

There have been many complaints about the parking. So why do the students have so many complaints? Junior Holly Murray answered our questions, "All the spots are marked staff." This doesn't seem to stop the students, though.

We asked senior Joel Bernaldi to describe the parking situation in one word, and "crowded" was his response. Well, no matter how you feel about the parking just hold on because 300 more spots are coming our way.

Simply Indescribable

Why do we wear the clothes we wear, and who do we wear them for?

While walking the halls of Kayhi you come across an array of different styles. They range from died hair and bleached jeans to baggy clothes and multiple earrings.

We wondered where all these different fashions came from, so we asked people where the most fashionable shopping outlet in Ketchikan was. The answers we received were quite different, from sophomore Amy Urban searching through the piles at the Salvation Army to junior Angie Buel combing the racks in Jay Jacobs.

When students were asked what the coolest thing to wear was, the answers were a variety of things. From Levis and Gap to sophomore Brad Haynes' style, "The clothes I wear are hickory shirts with sleeves cut off, Levis, and deck slippers."

Whatever the answer was, the clothes were always worn for the benefit of the person, no one else!

The cooler the clothes, the cooler the person. Right? Wrong! As junior Orla Kearny pointed out, "A personality is what makes a person. Clothing is what you wear, not who you are."

Whatever your style may be, you'll always fit in at Good 'ol Kayhi because YOU'VE GOT THE LOOK!

So if You Are...Come In! Past, Present, Future

The Future, a scary but exciting word. A word that is constantly there reminding you of the past and bringing situations further into the present. We shuffle through these phases of past, present and future, each of us remembering the past, reacting to the present and hoping for the future.

Every one of us as individuals make decisions that change the future; decisions that take us to different worlds and down new paths. "Deciding on a college and my future is a decision I will be reminded of every day of my life," says senior Shannon Larson. Our very actions of today are what cause the outcome of tomorrow. As we grow, our voices become louder, stronger and clearer, making us unique, as people with our different traditions and past situations.

The Present shapes now, changing our old ideas and creating more recent and adapted opinions. What we believed in the past is perfected and corrected in the present. "Things that I once believed in seem pointless or are wrong, so as the world changes, so do I," says Brooke Meacham.

The Future holds in store only what our wildest thoughts and ideas can begin to imagine.

So if you are a dreamer, a liar, a hoper, a pretender, a prayer, come and take the past by its very threads, strengthen it with the present, and spin your web into the future.

It's a Winter Wonderland Let's have a Snow Day

The snow comes around only once in a great while in the winter. On Tuesday, November 29, 1994, the snowfall began shortly after school ended. It continued on until early Wednesday morning. Over the evening, the snow added up to more than a foot!

There was so much snow, people just didn't have enough time to clear the roads in time for buses. At 6:15, the ringing of a stranger's voice over the radio said,

"School is cancelled!" The students had an awesome snow day in Ketchikan! Sophomore Jennifer Wolf said, "I played in the snow with friends." For other students, it meant hours of shoveling driveways and walkways. After the shoveling was done, everyone headed for the hills of snow.

Sophomore Tamara Shull said, "I went sledding with all my friends."

Everyone hopes we will have another snow day soon!

The Crazy Place To Be Is in the halls of KayHi

The halls are such a crazy place to be during the passing periods! Due to the sophomores and freshmen sharing lockers, we have twice as many students in one hall. That makes the downstairs hallway the worst to struggle through!

For many of the new students, it must be frustrating to find their way around in such a crazy place.

"I never noticed they were ever crowded," says freshman Erin Christensen.

The other halls are not as bad, as the upperclassmen know to walk on the right side of the hall to and from their classes.

"I love not having to share lockers with friends this year. It's just too crowded," says junior Cristina Doyle.

If you're falling behind schedule, the crowds cause you to lose time in running the race to class. Because of this, we just have to take our time and pray we will arrive to class before the bell.

Below: "I'm so glad that I made it down here in one piece," says Jessica Pilcher.

Too many people, too little space. Jennifer Soderstrom, Jason Kolanko, Nick Dyakanoff, Adam Berkey, and Brock

Adams struggle through the halls.

Many Kayhi students gathered in the commons to listen to the student forum.

"I get so angry I could just spit," says senior Michelle Carlin.

Getting Involved

Students at Kayhi get in the action

Does the idea of closed campus bother you? Does knowing that some advanced placement courses in Kayhi aren't offered to underclassmen just get you steamed?

"Having closed campus won't help any of Kayhi's problems," said sophomore Stormy Stewart. She may be right, but hopefully we will never know.

Some students in Kayhi are speaking up for what they believe in and what they want out of their high school education.

Junior Christine Lyhol let the school board in on her thoughts about the accelerated courses in school. "The people who want to learn more should be able to have that choice."

A student forum was held on Wednesday December 7th, 1994, at 1:30 in the Commons, involving the schoolboard. It was put on so that the school board could get an idea of what sort of things the students of Kayhi had on their minds.

All of the things talked about at the forum were very important issues involving all of the students in Kayhi. If you have something on your mind, don't be afraid to voice it.

Many students expressed their concerns on the topic of closed campus.

MAKE CHANGE! GET INVOLVED!

Express Yourself

What you do to be you...

It's the 90's and everyone is trying to make their mark and stand out from everyone else. When we were little we wore Underoos and Osh Kosh B'Gosh to be cool, but now we run around in metallic underwear, shave our heads and dangle crucifixes from our nostrils to fit in.

Maybe we should have been born in bell bottoms or dancing to the Go Go's. Clothes from every era are accepted as cool now and there is always a decade just right for you. From wild haircuts and crazy tattoos, to the new craze of piercing every imaginable spot on the body, people are busy trying to find their own original form of personal expression.

Our parents have a hard time dealing with our purple hair but we seem to know what the point of all this torture is for, "I like to dress funky and act weird because I don't care what anyone thinks," sophomore Mariah Midgett bubbled.

"Hey, I'm not weird. I think everyone else needs to get a life and just leave me alone! I know how to express myself, but are you sure you do?" questioned senior Russel Sund.

When asking senior Adam Berkey where he fit, he said, "I'm just Adam" -That he is.

So get out your tattoo gun and draw your favorite picture on your stomach, because the 90's are here and so are you. Get funky!

Looking Good! It's Not Just Another Dance

Homecoming... it's not just another dance. It is a chance for us to get ourselves dressed up and looking nice for an evening of fun with a group of friends or a special date. Senior Junior Estes stated, "I wish I was the only guy there. All the girls looked really nice."

sophomore Crystal Lammers. Rather than presenting the court between the J.V. and Varsity basketball games, it was done at the dance. The lights were turned on and all the couples descended the main staircase.

Our Homecoming dance this year was done in a new way from past years. "I liked how the homecoming court was presented this year," says

All in all the dance was a success with very little to complain about. The one complaint was made by junior David Anderson who said, "The DJ played too much country music."

It's Party Time! Senior Carnival Fun

Fun, excitement and lots of stress made the senior carnival a success. Even after months of delay, the seniors still were able to pull together to allow the community to have a great time.

The students frantically put together themes and costumes to put on the best carnival possible. From Pirates to Army men, the Class of 05 showed the crowd what they were made of.

Junior Jesse Bright

said, "The power of being a jailer was great."

After it was all over, the seniors had some interesting tales.

Senior Sunshine Samaniego said, "eating all the cotton candy was the best."

Senior Andy Williams remembered, "the way we all cleaned up so fast."

Overall, the Senior Carnival was a blast.

"What's your excuse?"

"I just didn't feel like doing it," says senior David Kullbom.

"I accidentally flushed it in the...well, you know," says junior Krystal Howard.

"Well if you really want to know, it will take about an hour," says sophomore Matt Biemer.

"The one armed man took it," freshman Kirk Haley.

Homework Excuses

The oldest form of art!

"Homework, yuk," says sophomore Kanta Schaffer!

The slime of the world. After a day of school and fussy teachers, most of us trudge home to do mounds of homework. So being the smart students we are, excuses were invented and have become one of the most creative and practiced arts.

Any body can act if they go to high school. Tears, yelling and shrugs are all part of the daily catastrophe. "Ya," says sophomore Emily Moore, "tears really work."

Students take pride and have had years of experience. Everyone has certain talents and possesses the ability to worm their way out of homework.

Right: Giving up for the day, Mrs. Patton catches some Z's.

Below: Good Morning! Sherri Kenyon's daily routine of two cups of coffee.

RISE & SHINE

School starts at 7:41!

Last year when teachers talked about changing the schedule and starting at 7:41 instead of 8:00, students hoped that it was a joke. Although in the teachers' eyes we are getting a better education, we're also losing lots of sleep.

"I get up at 4:45 so I can get ready and be at the bus stop by 6:30," says Junior Krystal Howard.

"I have to get my extra half hour of sleep on the bus," says Junior Christina Peter.

Although 15 minutes seems like a short period of time, when it's sleeping 15 minutes, it's an eternity. Don't get us wrong. Education is important. But so is sleep! How can we learn when we're trying to catch up on last night's sleep?

Left: Dreaming of sugar plums and fairies, Erin Eddy lays low.

Rats and Explosions All Kinds of Disturbances

"Mr. Jones! Peter threw his pencil at me!"

"Mrs. Brown! Sarah just laughed at me."

Teachers' lives are filled with problems like this even at the high school level.

It's something we're all guilty of. Freshman Jeremy Schultz told us he was once caught in the act of throwing a rat across the room to a friend.

Senior Jeremy Wolf said, "I hit my teacher with everything possible, books, pencils, and much more." Mr. Kralis told us of a time when a student in his class threw a match into a sink full of rubbing alcohol. You can guess what happened next, Boom!!! So keep on thinking up those ideas, and keep our teachers moving.

Below: Staying level headed will get you farther than you think, Nicholle Chandler shows us.

A Circus Act

The pressures we fall under

School, work, sports, friends, parents, teachers, and yourself. Could you ask for anything else to juggle? "A sense of humor is necessary to handle life as a senior," says senior Elise Begley.

Most students have to be a ringmaster to handle the elephant loads of homework. Your friends, and enemies, like a clan of clowns, change moods and faces as quickly as circus acts. "I can remember when one day my best friend was my best friend and the next my worst enemy," says sophomore Tancy Middag.

So just take a breather and, like any gymnast, practice, practice, practice. Eventually, you will learn to do it all.

The Class

The Book

Working for fun. Sounds like a contradiction, but it's not. There is a class where you can do work and still have fun. Yearbook!!!

Being the minority in the class, I probably see it a little differently than the others. When you are one of two boys in a class of eighteen, it changes your perspective on women's rights. Sophomore Ruben Pimentel said, "I'll never be prejudice again, because I realized what it is like to be the minority."

Yearbook also brings late nights working on pages. Sophomore Alyx Lesko said, "When the deadline comes, I bring my sleeping bag." Well, we all feel the same about one thing, and that is we all had fun doing the work that was assigned. I know I did.

To Do or Not To Do Are Academics Your First Priority?

"What do I do instead of homework? I skate, of course!"

That was freshman Jason Atkins' reply when asked what he did rather than homework. Although academics are first priority for some students, it comes second more often than not.

There are several things people do other than homework. Freshman Meghan Brown said, "I play basketball and I go to a lot of the dances." Two of the answers recieved most were from people who like to hang out at the mall and from people who spend time at their friends' houses.

Overall, there was a variety of things that students said they do instead of homework, ranging from reading a book at home to snow boarding out at Harriet Hunt. As Freshman Brent Purschwitz said, "I gotta have fun now, 'cause being a freshman will age me a hundred years!"

Through all the laughter and all the tears,
We will remember all the years,
The precious time we shared with you,
Our hardships and joys we went through.
Your smiles will forever remain in our memories,
A lifetime of friendship you gave, we will cherish faithfully,
You will always be close to us in reminiscence or time of need.
Memories never die or wither, your soul
forever freed. - Sarah Bean
To you, Jake, with much love
From all your friends and family

I think we all remember our eighth grade year as the best of them, and when I think back, I remember Jack. He was never too proud to show he cared and never afraid to stick up for what he believed in. His passion for life inspired us all and when he died, he took a part of all of us with him. I know he's watching us and laughing with us through our mistakes and our triumphs. He will be missed, loved and remembered fondly in many of our hearts, always. - Allegra Machado

Remember When...

Remember getting up early on Saturday to watch those crazy cartoons?

Remember your first day of Kindergarten?

Remember your first crush on the kid who lived next door?

Remember learning to ride a bike?

Remember banging those pots and pans to wake up your parents?

Remember your first kiss by the swing set?

Remember those cool, striped, velcro shoes?

Remember playing with Barbie dolls and Tonka trucks and making mud pies?

Kristie,
We are all so very proud of you! Just Remember that we'll always love you.
Love,
Mom, Dad, Brett, Missy, Nikki,

BE YOURSELF. WHO ELSE IS BETTER QUALIFIED?

You already have the raw materials of success:
a talent, an ambition, or a dream.
Discover that best part of yourself, work hard at making the most of it, and have a great life! Congratulations from
