Family members and friends of Courtnie Tuinstra and Chelsea Palmer, who died Aug. 6 from injuries sustained in an auto accident, gathered together Thursday afternoon for a group portrait at Phil Graham's Indian Street tattoo shop. The girls' parents, who created a butterfly design that is the names of one or both of the girls. Tuinstra, the left tattoo artist, created the tattoo Wednesday. From left to right standing are: Lauren McDonald, Courtnie's aunt, 17 years; Ben Smith, Michael McDonald, Ben Smith and friend of Chelsea, Jillian Taylor, friend of both girls; Matt and Sarah Smith; Courtnie's cousin. In Loving Memory

Everyone may remember her as the sporty jock who made people laugh, but I remember her as my best friend. She never asked questions cause she just always understood. She stood up for me against others and even against myself. She could always keep a secret and never passed judgment. She was the most beautiful girl, inside and out, that I've ever had the pleasure of knowing. Though I've lost my closest friend, I live on for her and I hope she knows that everything I do, is in memory of my best friend. "Court". -Jennifer Lluellyn

"Courtne was one of the first people I met. She always had a smile on her face. I miss her very much!" -Laura Thornburgh

Kate Bernison, a talented artist, was commissioned by Kayhi students to paint the memorial painting, Kathryn Brooks and Elizabeth Harpold organized the effort. Ms. Bernison, who works at Ketchikan General Hospital, said after spending time with family and friends of Courtne and Chelsea, she painted the road going up a mountain into a mist representing that the girls are out of view but still continuing on a journey.

"In Loving memory of Chelsea Ann Palmer and Courtne Marie Tuinstra." The painting is dedicated to Chelsea Palmer and Courtne Tuinstra.

"Two beautiful stars faded from the sky but never from our hearts." -Stephanie Patton

"You were the light of many lives, especially mine. There's not a day that I don't wake up thinking of you. You'll always be in my heart. We had so many awesome memories I just wish we could have had more. All our plans for the future I now pursue alone, but then I remember you'll always be with me. I've heard things happen for a good reason... I honestly don't see any good in this one. I love you, miss you, and will never forget you guys."

Love always and forever, TMC.

Nicole Carlson: "When I first met Kate Bernison she was sweet and was really focused on whatever she was painting at the time. You can tell by viewing her paintings that she puts a lot of thought and soul into her paintings."

"Even though I didn't know the girls that well they were always really sweet." -Naomi Fogley

Autumn's Gift

As crimson leaves drift to the ground on Autumn's breeze
Floating aimlessly as my thoughts.....

Destined to be surrounded, layer upon layer
Each leaf having unique but similar substance

And in their fall to await death their beauty has never Been quite as lovely, nor their colors nearly as vivid
Returning to eventual mulch, nourishment for a new beginning
Only hinting that they are renewing life with a whisper of the wind
-Connie Marcum Wong

Mrs. Bruce - "On the absolute top of my list, I won't tell you, so there. I'll never live it down. But I can tell you I loaded my rifle with a cartridge from the wrong box one time and when I got to the deer, his meat was blown to the smithereens."

Alicia Vasquez - "My most embarrassing moment was when I tripped and almost fell down the aisle at my wedding."

Andrew Russell - "When I was in the 1st grade I liked to watch this really dumb show called, Mighty Morphin Power Rangers. Yeah, I know, but I was little. One day I was at school I went to the bathroom. Well, while I was in the bathroom I started singing, not just any song, but the Power Rangers theme song. I knew that song, from beginning to end, and I even did the sound effects. I washed my hands and I walked into my classroom and everyone started laughing at me. I frantically asked why everyone was laughing at me. They told me I was a great singer. (They heard me through the vent.) My face turned beet red as I sat back down in my seat."

Breendon Morris - "Way, way, way back when, oh, about 6 years ago, I woke up from a rejuvinating nap. It was great. Little did I know that I was actually sleepwalking. I left my bed and walked out into the living room. I was greeted by my brothers, Seth and Aaron. Aaron asked me how I was and what I was up to. I told him I was going to the bathroom. He said OK, and let me go. To his surprise, he saw me walk into my kitchen, take out the garbage, and start peeing in the garbage can. He yelled at me and that, is when I found out what I was doing. It was really embarrassing, and it was horrible."

Carrie Morris - "I fell down the stairs, hit my head on the door and made a hole in it."

Nichole Aaron - "I was climbing on the rainbow jungle gym at Point Higgins when the bell rang to go inside. I jumped down, but one of the prongs caught the back of my shirt. I just hung there, slowly falling out of my shirt. I had to get a friend to help me down. Everyone was laughing."

Gavin Berkey - "I've always worn really baggy pants, and my friends like to joke about it. So one day, during my freshman year, Corey LaDuke pantsed me in the commons to teach me a lesson for not wearing a belt."

Katie Galloway - "One time, at Bible Camp, I saw this very cute boy with his shirt off and I went back for a second glance and ran into a tree. A couple days later I heard a song about someone running into a tree, a song that all the guys wrote me."

Michelle Mikolajczyk - "One fine morning, I was in a hurry to get ready for school, so I just threw some clothes on and ran out the door. As I was walking to my car, I got real cold, and these people were all staring and laughing at me. So I reached in my pocket to get something to peg them with, but then I couldn't find my pocket, and that's when I realized I had no pants on."

Kraig Bailey - "I fell asleep in Mrs. Green's class and I woke up with drool all over my face and the teacher told me to wake up and threw a Kleenex in my face. Everyone was laughing!"

Courtney Hayes - "I was at the beach watching these really hot guys. I fell asleep and when I woke up they were gone and I was really sunburned. I was called 'lobster' for weeks."

Tory Edwardson - "Xina and I were walking home from school, and we saw my 'uncle's truck' so we got in, shut the door, and we saw a stranger eating a bag of chips."

Mrs. Bowlen - "When I was in 7th grade, I was playing Hide-n-Seek with my friends after hours at school. I went downstairs to hide in the basement stairwell and fell into the uncovered septic tank."

Mr. O'Brien - "I just got married, I'm at the wedding reception, it was my turn to give the toast to my bride, to my mother-in-law, with 200 people staring at me. As I was proceeding, I forgot my mother-in-law's name."

Brendon Mix & Nate Norton

- "We were up in Sitka on a basketball trip and at half time of the JV game we went to the girls' locker room to change and go to the bathroom. When we were going to the bathroom the Drill Team came in and started doing their hair and we were still in the stalls."

Dawn Reno & Contessa Pahang

- "I was eating at Oceanview with Contessa and I saw my future husband across the room. I smiled at him and he kinda smiled back. Then he started mouthing something to me, but I couldn't understand what he was trying to say. So he walked over to me, bent down, came close to my face, and whispered, 'You have salad between your teeth.' I freaked out, grabbed the nearest napkin and accidentally knocked over Contessa's pop. It spilled all over her pants so it looked like she had an accident."

Lezanna West - "I was walking down the stairs at Schoenbar in 7th grade and I tripped over myself and fell down the stairs. I got up and Mr. Nausid came running and asked if I was OK and all I could say was, 'I was trying to ski.'"

Marcus Robecker

- "One time, when I was changing after wrestling practice, Xina walked in on me and ummm, yeah."

Jillian Gallyer - "Once upon a past embarrassing moment I was in the ice cream/candy shop in the Seatac Mall. There was an ice cream cone on the counter and I thought it was a really realistic, so I stuck my finger in it. And all of a sudden this woman said, 'Uh, that's my ice cream.' I got all red and felt so dumb!"

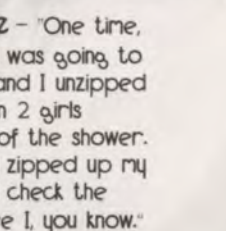

Darby Piercy - "During cheerleading practice, Andrew, Sarah and I were getting ready to do a basket toss with Dylan. We got into position and started counting, 1, 2, and on the count down I let out a really loud one. Once Dylan landed in our hands she quickly got off and asked if I cut the cheese. I said yes, and everyone started cracking up. It was very funny for everyone, but it was traumatizing for me."

Casey Klask - "One time, when I went to Canada for basketball, I was waiting in line to get into the building. I suddenly remembered that I forgot my ID. So I looked in my wallet to grab my school ID, then I realized I forgot that too. So I had to beg the customs guy to let me through. Then my coach came, I got in, but the customs guy told me I was stupid."

Devin Klose - "One time, at a party, I was going to take a leak, and I unzipped my pants, then 2 girls popped out of the shower. I hurried and zipped up my pants. Now I check the shower before I, you know."

Amy Farstad - "I was on a softball trip in Oregon. The whole team would drive around in a big van. There was like 15 of us. Well, at a big intersection we all jumped out to do the Chinese fire drill. I jumped out, but the seatbelt caught my foot, and I kinda just tumbled out. That was neat."

Melissa Williams - "One time during class, when I fell asleep, the teacher was talking to me and I kept talking back until my friend woke me up. I don't remember what I said, but I guess it was funny."

Christa Boyer - "My freshman year at the Clarke Cochrane I was walking out of the building, and looking at these really cute guys, and right when I hit the carpet I tripped and fell on my face. It was horrible!"
