PARTICIPATING

Student Initiative Strong

Ketchikan High School was not merely an institution of learning nor were its students educated solely by classroom experiences. Most students got involved in one of the many interesting and fulfilling activities sponsored by the school, faculty, or the students themselves. In joining in and sharing with others, many students identified interests and talents they didn’t know existed.

Student initiative was strong this year and resulted in two new activities.

Noting an apathetic spectator attitude at competitive sports events, a group of upperclassmen formed the Boys’ Rooting Association to combat the apathy with cheers. Their efforts proved rewarding as they cheered the Kayhi Kings Basketball team on to their first S.E. Conference title in several years.

Girls’ sports, long financially neglected by school authorities, received a lifesaving boost when the Ketchikan Board of Education granted them $1,000 after a group of interested girls and parents went before the board and requested such a grant. They claimed the action was necessary because school administrators considered girls’ athletics insignificant compared to boys’ sports.

In a town that drags its feet when it comes to providing adequate recreational programs and facilities for its youth, the activities provided by Kayhi were for many young people the only ones available.
The 1973-74 session of the Student Council looked to be a sleeper, but it soon appeared that the year was just off to a slow start.

The first meeting was held on September 25, 1973. Vacant seats in the Council were many and the members spent the rest of September trying to fill them. It soon became apparent that this task would take the rest of the year to complete.

In early October, a controversy developed when Terry Simpson, a senior representative, was put under fire by council members who criticized his morning radio report. The main complaint was that the report represented his views and not necessarily the views of the administration, student council or the students although it was called the "Kaysi Report". To keep from making what he called "friction in the council", Simpson resigned.

In November several council members expressed the desire to provide some kind of entertainment for students during lunch half-hour. The result was the addition of a "juke box" to the other vending machines in the MSR. Also, students had to be told not to beat and kick the vending machines. It was found that faulty coin returns had caused the problem.

Kathy Wilson expressed concern over the number of students who married or were forced into marriage during or immediately after high school. She informed the council of a family-life course in Parkrose, Oregon. Most of the seniors in that high school had taken the course. Two students were "married" at the beginning of the course. The couple then had to find places to live that would be compatible with their income. During the course, the couple bought a house to learn about mortgages. They were also given a mandatory child. Other factors such as work lay-offs and car accidents were added. The couple had to find a place in their budget to put these added costs. At the end of the course, the couple went through divorce proceedings. The council appointed a committee to help gather petitions and opinions. The council also passed a resolution asking the administration of the school to help plan such a course for next year. The school board accepted the proposal enthusiastically, and immediately set to the planning of the course.

Student Government Conference

Three student council members, Jed Whittaker, Rick Dale, and Gayle Groff, represented Kayhi at the S.E. Alaska student government conference held February 1, 2, and 3 at Sitka. Among the things discussed at the conference were: state basketball tournament, drug abuse, city government-student government relations, student apathy, and student discipline. This was the first such conference that Ketchikan had taken part in.

The student council here had been working on some way of getting a student on the school board in an advisory capacity. After talking with representatives from other cities in southeast Alaska, the Ketchikan representatives reported to the student council that other councils had sent capable people to the meetings who took notes and reported back to their councils. They also took part in discussions at the school board meeting. It was decided by the student council to adopt this format.

In February, Louis Washausen went to work to obtain a student smoking lounge. A committee was appointed to help obtain petitions and support for the lounge. However, faculty complaints and other problems have made the outcome of the project uncertain.

Also in February, the council revived the SBA newspaper. The newspaper was rejuvenated because of problems between the school newspaper "Kayhitem Journal" and the student council.

A drug abuse program, scholarships and a course in parliamentary procedure were other projects that the student council participated in during the course of the 1973-74 school year.

Pep Club had a major goal in 1974; housing over 500 students who came to Ketchikan Feb. 28-March 1-3 to attend the 1974 Southeastern Alaska Basketball Tournament.

The task was taken head-on by Pep Club President Brad Finney and Vice-President Tina Mattiashowski.

First off, they contacted every student in Kayhi, asking how many students each could house. After two weeks of begging and pleading, they managed to house about 150. Eventually they housed about 200. When they realized that they were in trouble, they began to brainstorm to find different methods to house the various students who would be on their doorstep shortly. Soon Marty Howell went to Problem Corner, a local radio program designed to solve problems, and she—practically sobbing—told the citizens of our plight. Within fifteen minutes over 100 students were housed.

The Pep Club was also given much credit for helping to raise school spirit. The Kayhitem, Kayhi's school newspaper, had one editorial describing the Pep Club president as having "natural charisma," and complimenting him for his fine work in "resurrecting school spirit."

The Pep Club took a positive side to cheers this year. Normally when class cheers were given, the class who cheered the least was given a "stonebaker award," which was a toilet plunger decorated with a flower and neatly displayed in a showcase where the class, and its year of graduation, and who had won the award, was listed. Normally this award was given to the freshman class. This year instead of the stonebaker a positive approach was taken. The spirit award was introduced and was given to the most outstanding class, the first time it went to the senior class of '74.
Pep Club Regains School Spirit

Varsity cheerleaders cheer the Kings on.

Tina and Brad discuss pep club ideas for the coming year.
Since the beginning of last summer Brad and Tina met at various times to plan for the 73-74 school year. They got a lot accomplished. The first of the year the Pep Club planned a Freshman Slave Auction to cut down on the hazing problem. It was quite successful as they made around $450.00 from it. Pep Club has also sponsored quite a few dances throughout the year and organized the B.R.A. which is the Boys Rooting Association. It has been quite successful also.

They sold buttons, pompons, and pennants for tournament and planned dances and a smorgasbord luncheon at Tourney also. Since both Southeast and State tournament were here this year, the entire Pep Club has been busy making posters and generally getting the spirit of the school up.

The kids were really great this year, they have participated a lot in housing and making the Pep Club successful.

With all the money they have made this year they went to Sitka for the Wrestling Tournament.

In the past Pep Club has been getting very commercial, but this year we've tried to get it back to the rah-rah-rah days.

Turnout to meeting and games has been good and we hope it will continue for a long time to come.
Boys’ Rooting Assn. Supports Kings

The Boys Rooting Association, (B.R.A.), newest addition to Kayhi’s cheering squad, was a stupendous success in helping revive the long lost spirit that Kayhi once sported.

The B.R.A was formed by Pep Club President Brad Finney in an effort to get Kayhi’s males involved in cheering. Like the name implies, B.R.A is an all male organization. The name and catchy initials were thought up by Mike Holman.

The B.R.A turned out to be more of a transient and fluid organization than was originally designed. They boasted a membership from five, at most meetings, to over a hundred at the basketball games. Still the B.R.A deserves much credit for their support of Kayhi activities and their great show of school spirit.

Kayhi’s student body got their first glimpse of the B.R.A at an early Pep Club assembly where the group put on a skit. Dressed in ridiculous attire, with ribbons in their hair, the B.R.A members hustled out onto the gym floor and went through some very humorous antics to the tune of the “Stripper” played by the Pep Band. Star of the performance was the B.R.A President, Kirk Broderick and his imitation of Knockers Knowles.

After a brief “ban the B.R.A” scare by the administration over the presentability of a few of the B.R.A cheers, the B.R.A made their first public appearance at the Kayhi-Metlakatla basketball game. Their cheers were mostly slams against the opposing teams but they were all in good fun.

Led on by President Kirk Broderick, advisor Brad Finney and the blundering voice and support of Ron Branda the B.R.A continued to gain in membership and enthusiasm throughout the year. They were a great help to Kayhi’s Pep Club and lent a hand whenever and wherever needed.

The B.R.A, although a new organization and somewhat of a green one, has the potential of developing into a major body at Kayhi in the years to come.

Matmaids Raise Money for Travels

Matmaids "Gain" On Candy

Matmaids, the girls wrestling auxiliary is a hard working group organized mainly for the purpose of assisting the wrestling team. The organization consisted of 20 girls headed by Chris Jackson, president with Miss Beverly Wilson as their club sponsor. The girls attend the wrestling matches to run the scoreboard, handle concessions, and hand out oranges to the wrestlers after each one wrestles.

The selection of the girls this year was different from past years. Each girl interested in becoming a matmaid was required to fill out an application, sign it and have it signed by a member of the faculty. The 20 Matmaids were then chosen from those applications.

Activities this past year included gift wrapping at Christmas time, concessions during the Prince Rupert game, candy sales, season wrestling ticket sales, and a trip to Wrangell with the wrestling team in which to be eligible to go a Matmaid had to sell at least three season wrestling tickets and the Matmaid who sold the most season tickets got her way paid to Wrangell and to see the wrestling matches while there.

Money raised throughout the year was used primarily to pay for the travel of the Matmaids to Wrestling Tournament held in Sitka.

Frozen Bananas Pay for Travel, Uniforms

Four newcomers made up the roster of the Kayhi Varsity Cheerleaders this year. Appearance, gymnastics, popularity, self-confidence, coordination, and voice were the qualifications the girls were chosen by.

The cheerleaders attended a camp in Oregon during the summer of '73 that helped them to have a smooth professional look. They traveled to Juneau for the Invitational Tournament and to Sitka for the Wrestling Tournament. To pay for the uniforms and traveling they sold frozen bananas at the '73 Fourth of July celebration. Mrs. Margaret Ortiz was their advisor.
We're rough, we're tough, we know it and we show it. We got power woo! Kayhi power woo! was one of the many original chants you heard coming out of the mouths of the J.V. cheerleaders.

These cheerleaders were Captain Judi Gierrard, Debbi Bransford, Mardel Williams, Cheryl Nelson, and Kim Schultz. During the year these enthusiastic girls worked hard on a variety of things such as money making schemes, learning new cheers and chants, representing the school and other things.

Each one of the cheerleaders has said she has enjoyed cheering for the junior varsity team and couldn’t have gotten along without the help and advice of Mrs. Margaret Ortiz. Some of these girls have plans for trying out for the Varsity squad at the end of this year.
G.A.A. Gets Funds

This year the Girls' Athletic Association, headed by Lisa Turner, has been especially active. One of their biggest goals was getting funds from the School Board for girls' athletics. They managed to fulfill this goal.

In the fall a volleyball tournament was held in Ketchikan. Girls from all over Southeastern Alaska came to participate. After a lot of hard work and a lot of fun, Mt. Edgecumbe won the tournament. Ketchikan girls worked hard and came in third place right behind Skagway who took second.

When volleyball tryouts were held at the beginning of the year, about forty-four girls turned out, showing that girls' athletics really count at Kayhi.

In February, the girls travelled to Juneau to participate in the S.E. Alaska Girls' Basketball Tournament. They made it all the way to the championship game where they were defeated by Mt. Edgecumbe (again). The final score was 31-30 with Kayhi making a last-second shot in an attempt to win the game.

Miss Marcia Marty, Kayhi girls' P.E. teacher, was the 1973-74 advisor for G.A.A.

Miss Marty, Colleen Patrick, Gail Houtary, Lisa Turner, Carla Houtary, and Patsy Hamilton discuss volleyball strategies.
The Kayhi Drill Team, advised by Miss Marcia Marty, set high goals for this last year. Their main objective was to take a high rating (preferably first) in Drill Team Competition during the annual Southeast Alaska Basketball Tournament. The tournament was in Ketchikan so our girls had the advantage of marching on a floor they were used to.

The team worked hard this year, trying to overcome a lot of things that would normally defeat a drill team. One of these was a practically whole new group of girls. Many of them had never marched before, except during try-outs and had to learn proper marching techniques. Other drawbacks were deciding how their image should come across and getting the team’s standards back in shape. They decided that the membership should be an honor and bring forth their best efforts.

Tina Matiashowski managed the Drill Team and Teri Taylor and Heidi LaRosa were the 1973-74 captains.
Strives for First!

Captain Teri Taylor, Manager Tina Matiashowski, Captain Heidi LaRosa
January and February were two of the busiest months for the Kings Knights. Not only did they serve the public at basketball games, but at wrestling matches as well.

Kings Knights started out the year with a great compliment from the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools Accreditation Team. They called the Kings Knights "an organization worthy of high commendation". In so many words, the accreditation team thought that Kings Knights was a very exemplary organization, unique in its function as a service organization dedicated to serving others ahead of self.

After a thrilling movie on how to use fire extinguishers of different types, the Knights got to try several of them for themselves. During the fire drills it is the Knights who check all the rooms to make sure that everyone is out, the lights off and the windows shut.

Letterman Auction Raises $500

Lettermen's President Steve Ortiz, Secretary Gene Walters, and advisor Frank Adame.

Lettermen line up during Pep Assembly.
Most people think that to be a Letterman you only have to get a letter in Varsity sport. They are partly right. To be a Letterman, Wrestlers have to have wrestled a certain number of matches and they spend the entire year trying to make weight. Basketball players also have prerequisites. They have to make 32 practices and be home early on the nights of games.

Lettermen have to maintain their letter throughout the year, be passing in most of their classes, and they can not skip any classes. They have many Pep assemblies to participate in and an annual Slave Auction where they spend the week doing many demoralizing tasks. They also have to part with their handsome locks before the season starts.

Being a Letterman is more than a lot of prestige—it's hard work.

Spanish Club Learns Mexican Customs

Have you ever had the urge to eat a Mexican meal but didn't know how to fix it? Well, learning to cook Mexican food was just one of the many projects of this year's Spanish Club. Various other projects included popcorn sales to raise money, showcase displays with articles from Mexico in it, making pinatas, making mannequins and dressing them in Mexican clothing, a skating party, concessions for the Sitka-Kayhi basketball game, and preparing stories, plays, or songs to present to the elementary or Junior High School students.

Advisors for the Spanish Club this year were Mary Jo Turek and Frank Adame.

Another addition to the Spanish speaking groups is the Mexican travel group which is planning a trip to Mexico during the summer vacation. This group was not only limited to the members of the Spanish Club but to any student in the school who is interested in traveling to Mexico.

Art Club "Draws" 8 Members

Jewelry Made

Working to express themselves was the main objective of the 1973-1974 Art Club. The club was designed so that everyone could work on anything that they wanted to on their own. The club was opened not only to members of the Art Club but also to any student in the school who wished to express his artistic ability.

The club itself consisted of 8 students and met one night weekly throughout the school year.

One of the most interesting activities of the Art Club was the making of jewelry in which they polished their own stones and put the jewelry together entirely by themselves.

Honor Society
Taps New Members

Twenty-three outstanding students were introduced to the Kayhi student body and then initiated into the Torch chapter of the National Honor Society in the Kayhi auditorium on Thursday morning, January 24, 1974. Parents, faculty, and the student body were present at the ceremonies.

Karen Rhoades, president of the society, explained the method of candidate selection to the assembled multitude. Upperclassmen with G.P.A.’s of 3.2 or higher were invited to apply to be considered as prospective Torch members. Before making the final selections, faculty, administration and present Torch members reviewed the candidate’s qualifications in the light of the four bases for membership: scholarship, service, leadership, and character.

Present Torch members took turns listing pertinent information about each candidate before announcing their name to the audience. Following the student body assembly a candlelight initiation ceremony was held. R.W. Stekl, principal of Kayhi, distributed official membership cards to the new members.

Mrs. Florence Turek was NHS faculty advisor.

Journalism Staff
Elevates Interest

Both publications of the Kayhi journalism department, the Williwaw, the school's yearbook and the Kayhiems Journal, its bimonthly newspaper shared the same staff, advisor, room and materials. With only fourteen people taking journalism this year (an all-time low) it was a necessity.

Although the staff was consistently short-handed, no deadlines were missed and some real gains were made in improving both publications. The 1974 Williwaw is both the longest and most colorful yearbook in Kayhi history. At 208 pages it is a full sixteen pages longer than the previous record holder. Sixteen pages of full color grace the opening section of the annual. Innovative layouts such as vertical division pages were experimented with and used effectively.

Significant improvements in the quality and attractiveness of the newspaper were made by enlarging the format from 11" x 8 1/2" to 17" x 11". More pictures were run and students outside of the journalism staff were invited to submit stories and editorials. As a result of these and other changes, student interest in the newspaper increased markedly.

The staff was fortunate to boast a number of extraordinarily hard working students. In addition to putting out two publications the students were required to learn journalism from the book and turn in homework assignments. Most students also spent many hours outside of class taking pictures and learning how to use the darkroom. Ms. Beverly Wilson, the journalism staff advisor, worked many hours overtime assisting the staff.

Despite many problems, the understaffed journalism class did a remarkable job in elevating student interest in Kayhi's publications.

With 11 members either graduating or leaving, Stage Band will be depleted considerably by next year. However, director Roy McPherson has great expectations for next year's band.
Pep Band Travels to Prince Rupert

Pep Band is the group most often heard in public as a result of basketball games. The group is slightly larger this year because they will be the host band for the S.E. Basketball Tourney. The size has not affected the playing ability of the band members. This is the year of the graduating senior, and next year will be mainly a building year for this group.

Athletics is desire. How badly do you want to obtain that goal? Are you willing to sacrifice a little sweat, can you take the failures, are you willing to work? What does it mean to you? An athlete's answer would be "Everything!"

Athletics is pride in oneself. An athlete is proud of himself, of his physique, of his capabilities, and his accomplishments. Have you ever run 14 miles in gym gear while there was snow on the ground? Have you ever missed the Super Bowl because you were pacing the halls? How many people can really claim that they've ever pushed themselves to the edge of endurance? An athlete can, again and again, and each time he does, it gives him a little more pride, a little more confidence in himself. How many people know how nice a good sweat can feel, just because you know you are working and pushing and straining? How many people have ever run - run until they are exhausted - for no reason at all other than for the pure pleasure of exertion? An athlete has.

Athletics is practice. Being an athlete means running when the coach says run, jumping when he says jump, listening when he instructs, and cursing him when he says move, yet still moving. Being an athlete means doing it again until you do it right, or doing it just one more time. An athlete has to be willing to run and sweat and run some more. He has to work at it until he gets it right, or until he can't do it anymore, and then, do it one more time.

Athletics is losing. You ran that extra mile, you worked, you sweat, you wanted to win, but you lost. An athlete is the one who looks within himself for the blame, not to a teammate or a bad call. An athlete is the person who falls again and again, yet gets up and tries and works and sweats some more after each fall. An athlete is the one who says to himself, "Where did I go wrong? I can do better next time if I only ..." A loser is the person who says, "What went wrong? If only I had ..."

Athletics is reaching your goal. A winner is the one who reaches the top and looks down. An athlete is the one who reaches the top and looks up. He is never satisfied with his performance; he knows he can do better. He sets a new goal, a new branch to reach, a new star to climb for, and he starts climbing.

Athletics is a goal, it's competition, desire and pride, it's practice, it's winning and losing. Athletics is the making of a boy into a man or an adult into a youth. It is making an individual a better person for the community, a better person for himself.
COMPETING

Athletics Is:

Athletics is a goal. Before each season, and before each match, every game, every practice, an athlete has to set a goal for himself. He must face up to himself and ask, "What can I do? What would I like to do? What am I going to do?"

If the goal he sets is too high, he will lose sight of it, become bored and sidetracked. If his goal is set too low, he will loaf, become lax and lazy, useless to himself and to his team.

The goal he sets must be possible to attain, although the athlete doesn't always reach it. It has to be something that is worth a little sweat, a lot of work, a few failures and a tear. It must be an objective so unique that when the athlete is dead tired he will get up and run another mile, knowing that it is helping him achieve this end.

His goal may be making the varsity team, a regional championship, all star team, or it may be an Olympic gold medal. Whatever this goal may be, a good athlete will have one. He will constantly strive to attain it, and when the season is over, the match is through, when everybody has gone home and he has not reached his goal, the athlete does not call it quits. That goal will still be there tomorrow, next season, or next year, and so will a good athlete.

Athletics is competition. An athlete must be in constant competition, with his opponents, with his teammates, and hardest of all, with himself. He has to drive himself in practice; he has to practice on his own; he has to push himself and push some more. He's got to say, "I can win, I want to win, and I will win, but I've got to move now." He's got to drag himself one more time around the court, wrestle one more match, run that extra mile - because that's what makes an athlete.

Athletics is
Cross Country

Cross country has long been the most neglected sport at Kayhi, in participation by athletes, in funds from the school board and by spectators from the community, and yet it is one of the most demanding sports man has ever participated in.

Endurance is the key to running cross-country. The runner must start at a steady flowing pace which he must keep up for as much as three miles, all the while saving that extra burst of speed to put him first across the ribbon. He must not, however, allow this pace to be such that he lags in the field. If this happens then the runner must increase his own pace to match that of the field thus breaking his rhythm and probably losing the meet.

This then, a steady flowing pace, is the key to success in cross-country; this is what a runner puts in hours of practice and mile after mile of sprints, shuttles, and long distance runs to obtain. This is cross-country.

Kayhi started the year off well this year, having lost only one key man from last year's squad; the returning team looked pretty tough. The jaunty joggers quickly cinched up the first meet, the Ketchikan Invitational, with a total of only 19 points as opposed to Wrangell's second place score of 55.

The following week at the Petersburg meet, Kayhi's fleet footed fellows ran into some stiffer competition in the Juneau team and were only able to come away with a tie for the first place spot.

With very little rest and plenty of practice Kayhi's runners invaded the Juneau Bears' domain October 1 to see if they couldn't relinquish their somewhat fallen spirit. The Bears proved tougher on their home ground however, and Kayhi was only able to come up with a submerged second place trophy, trailing behind the Bears 53 to 39.

Kayhi was further snubbed at the Southeast Crosscountry Tournament, October 12-13 in Wrangell and fell to third place beaten by Juneau and Mt. Edgecumbe.

The big man for the Kayhi runners showed up in 5'7" Scott Keene, a sophomore. Keene led the Kayhi field in all but one of their meets and came up with the first place honors at the Ketchikan Invitational.

Coach Frank Adame was pleased with Keen's performance and hopes to have him back next year to help centralize the squad. Adame was not so pleased with his five returning senior crosscountrymen who he was counting on to pull out a second, consecutive first place trophy at the S.E. Tournament. These five, basically the same team who won last years meet, simply did not perform as well this year as they had in previous years.

Athletics Is ...

Athletics is basketball. In many ways basketball is a unique sport, it is the only major sport entirely of U.S. origin and is second only to soccer as an international sport. It combines the natural skills of running, jumping, and throwing as well as developing endurance. Basketball calls for a unique combination of team play as well as the need for instantaneous individual decisions. It calls for a variety of proper stops, pivots, and turns which must be developed in conjunction with speed, quickness, balance, and deception, all necessary ingredients of a good basketball player.

All this is what makes basketball the popular sport it is, a quick, action packed, high scoring, fast tempered game, as well as one of the most interesting and exciting sports man has ever participated in.

Basketball had always been the big sport at Kayhi drawing the bulk of participants, funds, and spectators. Nor did the team let its fans down this year as they cinched up the Conference championship, losing only 2 games, all season, to the Petersburg Vikings. Kayhi went undefeated on the home court however.

As in previous years Kayhi didn't boast any really big men. Coach Bob Vincent however didn't let this hamper him and capitalized on his players speed and quickness to consistently drive through the opponents defense and to the basket. The team sported 4 seniors on the Varsity squad but had several more than adequate juniors to fill in the 5th position, although the honors usually fell to Steve MacDonald, who did his share of ball stealing, rebounding, and scoring.

The squad led by the well rounded playing of Captain Bill Pattison and eagle eye shooting and dazzling lay-ups of Steve Ortiz was one of the best balanced teams Kayhi has put forth. The team played smoothly and as a whole.

High point honors were shared by everyone, making it increasingly hard for the opposition to center their defense on any man. Kayhi also had a full bench of strong reserve.

Garry Craig, although short for a senior did quite well in pulling down his share of the rebounds and in tipping the missed shot. He was also quite effective from the outside as he proved against the Petersburg Vikings whose big men pretty much kept him from the inside. Rounding out the squad was Gene Walters whose consistent shooting from the corners was phenomenal.

Also seeing quite a bit of action were speedsters Steve MacDonald, Kirk Sharp, and Shawn Henderson, all sporting speed and good ball handling.

Although the team will be losing four of its starting five first-string due to graduation, Coach Bob Vincent will have some good stock to work with next year, as Coach Ortiz's J.V. squad showed some promising players especially in sophomore Joe Jackson who even saw a little Varsity action before the year was out.
Kayhi Wins Season Opener

The Kayhi Kings started the season off on a happy note downing the visiting Metlakatla Chiefs 86-43 in the season’s first high school basketball contest November 16.

Experience showed on the Kayhi squad as they out-maneuvered the Chiefs numerous times. Coach Mike Hirai had a handicap that was impossible to overcome. Four Chiefs were out from poor grades from the last week and this cut his bench strength to nil.

The Kings racked up win number two the next night when they downed the Chiefs 78-43 on their own home court to sweep the series. The Chiefs, a little more relaxed on their own home ground, gave the Kings a tussle for the lead in the early part of the game.

For the Chiefs, it was Aaron Cook whom they looked to. He accommodated them by swishing through nine baskets and five free throws for 23 points.

Bill Pattison, Kayhi guard, led all scorers with 26 points. He hit 50 per cent from the field and knocked down numerous passes. Steve Ortiz, who played a fine defensive game and fed exceptionally well, wound up with 12. Garry Craig had 11 as Kayhi’s only other double-figure scorer.

Beats Sitka, Edgecumbe on Roadtrip

Coach Bob Vincent used all ten players and each of them scored as the Kayhi Kings overran the Mt. Edgecumbe Braves 108-49 in a game on Edgecumbe’s home court, November 29. The Braves were not as bad as the score would indicate always keeping the Kings on the run.

The difference came in the second quarter when the Kings played defense and held the Braves to one basket until the final minute of the period. The score by quarters was 24-19, 54-24, 79-33, and 108-49.

Vincent used the first string for most of the first quarter and again in the third period. The rest of the game was played by the reserves.

The Kings then journeyed across Sitka Sound for a two game stand against the Wolves. The two teams battled right down to the wire each night with the Kings edging the Wolves in both attempts. Scores were 45-42 for the first game and 50-47 for the second.

Both teams played good defensive games but were somewhat ragged on offense. Rebounding played an important part in the games with the Kings out grabbing the Wolves by a 2-1 margin.

The Kings then traveled back to Mt. Edgecumbe to complete the four game series. The Kings again won handily by a score of 99-44.

Kings Defeat Rupert Four Times

The Kayhi Kings completely dominated Prince Rupert in basketball this season. The Kings received victories of all four games from the Rainmakers.

The first game in Prince Rupert the Kings won by a score of 84-50. During the game Coach Bob Vincent emptied his bench and sent in the reserves. They went on to build a 61-32 lead, receiving a round of applause and cheers from the spectators.

The Kings lost both games to the Vikings when they played in Petersburg, but showed who's boss when they downed the visiting Vikings both nights during the homecoming festivities.

The Kings also swept a two-game series with the Wolves in Wrangell and then again when they played on home court.

The team work and even scoring of the Kings made it difficult for the Wolves to concentrate on any one man.

Kayhi Beats Vikings in Homecoming Games

In Homecoming games December 15 and 16, the Kings slipped past the Vikings 59-49 on Friday but overpowered them Saturday with a 72-57 win.

Saturday’s game was full of power. The Vikings couldn’t contain Steve Ortiz as he scored 23 points and got 11 rebounds.

The Vikings controlled the tip-off every quarter but couldn’t get by the Kings’ defense.

Although Gene Walters hurt his ankle during the first part of the game the Kings won easily making 23 points in the third quarter.

Homecoming came to a finish this year with the crowning of Karen Iversen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Iversen and Bill Pattison, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pattison and captain of the Kayhi Kings Basketball team as Homecoming Queen and King. They were crowned during halftime between Homecoming games with Petersburg, following a bonfire in the field behind the school.

Kings Lose To Mercer Island

The Kayhi Kings lost their first game of the season to the Mercer Island Islanders, 57-45. The Islanders led by quarter scores of 17-11, 28-18, 42-38. Height was an added factor in stopping the Kings’ shots. Terry Pepple was high scorer in the game with 18 points. Steve Ortiz was next high with 16.

Dimond High (Anchorage) handed the Kings their second loss with a score of 48-41. Leading scorer of that game was Steve Ortiz with 18, followed by Dan Hardy (Dimond) with 13. The Kings led in the first half by a score of 24-21, but then gradually fell behind during the third and fourth quarters.
Steve McDonald (15) takes a shot at the basket while teammates Bill Pattison (10) and Norman Skan look on.

The Juneau Bears went down to defeat at the hands of the Kayhi Kings, during the home series, that was played January 4 and 5. Top scorer Steve Ortiz proved to be hard to stop and ran up 25 points on the board. Coach Vincent used the second string players to an advantage, and they didn’t let him down. The final score of the game was 68-48. The Kings repeated their performance of the night before and won the second game with a score of 77-47.

The Kings traveled to Juneau for the series there during the 15 and 16 of February. Top scorer was Chuck Nygard with 18 points, but the Kings came out victorious once again with scores of 69-47, and 75-48.

KAYHI HOSTS 1974
BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

People from Petersburg, Wrangell, Sitka, Yakutat, Haines, Juneau, and Mt. Edgecumbe arrived by ferry to participate in the S. E. Alaska Basketball Tournament held in Ketchikan March 1-3. This created a lot of commotion around Kayhi but it was all kept under control by R. W. Stekl and Dick Hansen, our school administrators. The closer it got to game time the more nervous everyone got. You could sense the excitement in the air... people cheering and yelling for their team, the players charging for the basket.

And soon it was all over and Kayhi was victorious—taking their first S. E. Basketball Title since 1968.

right: Sitka downed Haines 52-56.
Following the games the president of the S. E. district and a member of the board of control for the state activities association, Dick McCormick, presented trophies to: Juneau-Douglas as first place drill team and Sitka for second. Chuck Nygard for free throw (a perfect 25 out of 25 attempts), Haines for their cheerleaders, Ketchikan for first place in basketball and individual awards, second place basketball to Petersburg, third place to Sitka, and fourth place to Haines.

They then named the all-tournament team. It contained Steve Ortiz, Bill Pattison, and Gary Craig of Ketchikan, Tom Lewis and Mike Durkin of Petersburg, Terry Sele and Barton Bennett of Haines, Chuck Trierschield and Paul Haavig of Sitka, and Fred Angerman of Wrangell.

First place cheerleaders from Haines, Shirley Lammers, Anita Preslar, Jackie Reeves, and Tammy Fotta, leads the crowd in a cheer.

KINGS ARE NUMBER 1

On March 2, the Kayhi Kings defeated the Petersburg Vikings 62-43 in the championship game of the class A high school basketball tournament. This gave the Kings the Southeast Alaska basketball title.

The game started off slow, with both teams making baskets here and there and missing until Steve Ortiz made the opening score of the game after two minutes of playing. The first quarter ended with Kayhi leading 21-6.

At halftime Kayhi had a 33-16 lead but the third quarter was a real thriller. The time clock broke down and the game was continued by the use of a stop watch until the auxiliary timer was put in place. Someone hollered "Shoot, shoot," as Ortiz was coming down the court so he cut loose and arched a high shot that swished right through as the buzzer went off ending the quarter.

In the final quarter both teams scored 17 points. Coach Vincent put in his second string men and before the period was over he had the whole first string on the bench where they were nothing but big grins.

Sam Johnson wrestles Sean McEvoy for practice.
Wrestling is the oldest sport known to man as well as being one of the simplest, fastest, most demanding, yet most rewarding sports man has ever invented.

Wrestling is simple in that it requires no extraneous equipment, just the two opponents. It is fair in that you are matched against an opponent who is your own size; your own weight. In this way a big man doesn’t mean he is good as in football or as does a tall man in basketball. In wrestling big is matched against big, small against small, what the individual does with his size and weight is up to him. Tall, skinny, strong, squat, they all have their advantage and their potential in wrestling.

Wrestling is demanding in that not only must the wrestler know the moves required to beat an opponent, to take him to the mat, to escape his holds, the counter, the reversals, and the pins, but he must spend hours and hours of his practice time in conditioning, pacing the halls, push ups, sit ups, dress drills, sprints, moving, all the time moving. He’s got to push himself to the limit and then go a little more, for the wrestler that is in shape is the wrestler that wins. Yet a wrestler has another battle to fight, the fight with himself, the constant struggle to retain his weight. After three hours of wrestling and sweating, sweating until the sweat streams out of every pore, your mouth is dry and your tongue is cracked, yet you don’t drink any water because you have to make weight for the next meet, this is what it is to be a wrestler.

And wrestling is rewarding. In wrestling you are on your own on the mat. When you get tired there are no time outs and no replacements, you’re all alone. So when you lose, the loss comes back to you, there is no one else to blame, it was your fault. You and you alone were on that mat, there is no blaming a teammate for a bad play or a missed chance, you lost it. But when you win, you won alone, and you can be assured that you didn’t just ride along on your teammates abilities because again, it was you alone on that mat facing the opponent. You won it by yourself, and this, the conditioning, the moving, the thirsting, the striving, the sacrificing, the losing, the winning, is what wrestling, the truly great sport, is.

A bar of soap was all that was needed to gain entrance to the annual alumni wrestling match, January 18.

The unusual admission charge was the result of a critical soap shortage caused by flagrant fedishistic cleanliness of the boy's athletic departments. The year's quota of soap was exhausted with nearly a half a year remaining. The Alumni game significantly boosted the soap supply and gave Coach Frank Adame a chance to test his upcoming wrestlers.

The Alumni had to give up the first four weight classes but Adame lent them wrestlers from the Kayhi reserve squad to fill those spots. The alumni that wrestled were Sonny Jackson, Tony Martin, Curt Tucker, Clyde Collins, Mike Martin, Marty Jackson, Dale Fox and Steve Brandow.

The alumni matmen proved to be slightly out of shape. Their years evidently caught up with them as they lost 53-6. They showed some good moves but didn't have the endurance to last the three periods.

Wrestling is Grueling

At its easiest wrestling is hard, at Kayhi, under Coach Frank Adame, it is grueling. Three hour practices, seven days a week, conditioning, wrestling, moving, always moving, and practicing when the others are resting — this is the key to Adame’s success. And success he has certainly had, coaching Kayhi’s wrestling team to 4 S. E. championships out of his 5 years of coaching here at Kayhi. As always Coach Adame had his matmen in the peak of condition which certainly showed through in Kayhi’s meets as the Kayhi wrestlers continually outscored and outmoved their opponents, keeping up with the Kayhi tradition of sporting tough wrestlers.

Going into the beginning of the season, the Kayhi squad looked pretty scrappy, there were no real exceptional wrestlers, no outstanding talent. Yet the team came out strong and took its fifth S. E. Championship, literally overpowering the opposition.

The consistent pinning of Norman Jackson, Lester McCormick, Don Haseltine, and Sam Johnson pretty well set the tempo for the rest of the team.

Seniors Dominate Squad

Seniors Jim Fitzgerald and Mike George both saw their first varsity action this year and proved to be strong competitors. Rounding out the team were returning Lettermen Monty Allen, Tom Rentz, Carson Lindley, Sam Johnson, Don Haseltine, and co-captains Brad Finney and Sean McEvoy.

Also seeing some varsity action and doing commendable jobs were Mike Nash, Bill Auger, Leo Peterson, and Jim Schenk. Chuck Mallot who started the season late due to injuries also showed the strong potential that led him to state champion last year.

Although Coach Adame will be losing 8 of his varsity men through graduation this year, he will have good stock in the reserve squad to base his next year’s team on.

Lester McCormick counters his opponent’s stand-up attempt with a cradle.

Nobody ever stops to think what Teacher does do when we all leave Kayhi in the afternoon. Teacher doesn't sleep at the school. Teacher has a house, a real one just like you and me, with a real T.V. and real tables and chairs and windows.

Teacher probably eats dinner too, with a family maybe. Teacher might even read the newspaper or have a beer before he settles down to grade test papers.

Have you ever wondered what Teacher did outside of the six hours at Kayhi?

Have you ever thought of Teacher Joe Blow, you know, the one that always gives 8 page surprise tests, have you ever thought that he was a scuba diver. He learned when he was 8 years old and has been diving every since. He also snores.

And Ms. Teacher Smith, did you know that she's been to every state in the Union, not to mention 18 different countries? Her husband claims he to be the best cook in Ketchikan, and probably all of Alaska.

And I'm sure you know Mr. Teacher Doe. Even though he is quite uninteresting in class, he has many interesting hobbies. He's a collector. Among his elaborate collections are coins, stamps, butterflies, rocks, spiders, baseball cards, Olympia bottle caps, bottles, model cars, sea shells, ticket stubs and cufflinks. If you saw his house you'd never call John Doe a blah and uninteresting teacher.

Maybe you're starting to understand now. The Faculty at Kayhi are all teachers, granted, but don't stop there. They are all people, regular human beings. They are adults, and each and everyone of them has an interesting life.

But, they are teachers, and afterall, what is a teacher but a teacher.

Teachers are Human

At 8:00 a.m. the first bell rings and as we rush into class we notice Teacher sitting at his desk, just where Teacher was yesterday when we scampered out of the room. For all we know Teacher could have slept there at his desk over night. Class begins and Teacher lectures for awhile. Teacher writes some things on the chalkboard and points out a few things with a ruler. Then Teacher hands back some past homework assignments and gives us another one. When class is over we crowd to the door and leave Teacher where we found Teacher.

12:00 noon and out of the chalk dusty classroom emerges Teacher. Teacher walks slowly into the Faculty Lounge with a pile of papers. In the lounge Teacher has coffee and they all talk about students.

Finally the bell marking the end of 6th hour and the beginning of our freedom for the rest of the day rings, and we all leave the school with Teacher to clean the chalkboard or some other exciting Teacher-type duty.
Stekl Remembers
First Teaching Job

One of Principal R.W. Stekl's most pleasurable experiences came in the three years he was Superintendent in Cresbard, South Dakota which had one school that was attended by about 235 High School and Elementary School students. Stekl also taught five classes (typing I & II, secretarial practice, bookkeeping, and shorthand), was advisor for the yearbook and school paper, directed two plays every year he was there, coached girl's basketball and still found time to attend all his school's activities.

"In all my years in school work since that time, I have never been as busy, nor have I ever found my work to be as much "fun" for myself as it was in that small school system. It is a real pleasure for me to look through yearbooks of those years and to recall some of those experiences of long ago. I hope that I can have this same feeling when I look through some of my Kayhi yearbooks 10-15 years from now."

Hamlin Pilots Plane

Ketchikan was a different place in the 1950’s than it is now. Mr. Hamlin knows that. In 1955 he started flying and owned a plane even before he owned a car.

Since then his interests have been generally related to the outdoors. He owns a Piper PA 12 and has flown as far south as San Diego and as far north as Bethel in it. Since seaplanes are unusual in the south he caused quite a commotion wherever he went.

Now he flies for the Fish and Game in the summer looking for schools of fish which he counts and spends his winters teaching at Kayhi.
Mrs. Marksheffel has traveled in Canada, Mexico, Portugal and Spain. She has visited 17 states and has lived in 6 of them.

During spring vacation she went to Hawaii on a business trip.

Mrs. Marksheffel became a grandmother on November 8, 1973, when her daughter-in-law Penny, (Mrs. Eddie Marksheffel), had a baby girl.
Of all the teachers at Kayhi it is well known that Mr. Myerchin has the most vivid imagination. From hitchhiking with his money in a toothpaste tube to taking a lie detector test — he's done it all and more. In fact he claims to have done so many things that one wonders whether they aren't just a figment of his imagination.
Mrs. Holden lectures on salmon spawning.
Stefon Conducts Tours

Mr. Stefon spends his summers as a tour guide. He has traveled in 140 countries and areas of Africa, Asia, Australia, the South Pacific, Europe, and North and South America, and conducted tours to Europe, Africa, the Holy Lands, the Orient, the South Pacific, South America, and around the world.

He has climbed mountains in most parts of the world and once did a solo ascent up the northeast ridge to the summit of the Matterhorn in Switzerland.
In a few years Mr. Thompsen would like to be a missionary in Mexico. (He was one previously, about 20 years ago). Until then he will spend some of his summers in Mexico and on the border.

Wilson Remembers 72 Hours in Bomb Shelter

One of the "dumber" things Miss Wilson did in college was to volunteer to spend 72 hours in a Civil Defense fallout shelter. (Albuquerque was really big on that sort of thing since the Atomic Energy commission is based there). With 50 other "guinea pigs" ages 4 through 70, Miss Wilson ate C-rations, drank bottled water and helped build temporary sanitary facilities (toilets). Their leader "died" of radiation exposure the first day.

Another interesting fact about Miss Wilson is that she claims that in a strap-less evening gown she looks like a football player, and from a certain profile she resembles George Washington.

The predominate purpose and function of a high school is as unique as the community it serves. Different communities see different educational and vocational needs and devise their educational goals accordingly. As the only high school in a small community, Ketchikan High must meet the educational needs of all the students in the area. This means trying to educate a group of students with a wide range of intellectual abilities and interests.

Recently the Ketchikan Gateway Borough School Board decided to administer a standardized test to a representative group of students in each class at each of the district’s schools. It was the intention of the members of the School Board to get an indication of approximately how Ketchikan students compare to students in other school districts across the nation.

Students at Kayhi generally scored very near the national norm with composite scores of 51% for both the freshman and sophomore classes, 45% for the junior class, and 65% for the senior class. All classes were consistently above the national average in reading skills and below the national average in English skills.

Some people in the community were upset by the fact that our school tested out to be “only” average. Certainly there is room for improvement at Kayhi but to significantly raise the standardized test scores would require the exclusion of those students with lesser intellectual capabilities. Since it is the desire of the majority of the community to educate all high school-aged youth at one facility, it looks like Kayhi will be just an average high school for some time to come.

Kayhi Students Care

One of the major complaints of Ketchikan adults is that kids don't get involved or have any responsibility for the future.

Little known to other people a group of Teacher's Aides have been taking action towards the future. They work with Special Education children at White Cliff School teaching wood crafting, reading, math, and swimming. Sometimes they spend whole days just playing games with the kids or watching Sesame Street on T.V. Other days were spent grinding away at math problems.

No matter how easy or hard the work they do — Ketchikan has to be proud of these individuals for caring enough to devote their time and talents toward looking ahead.
By stressing knowledge rather than thought processes our school has fashioned a class of mynah birds, capable only of memorization and duplication rather than a class of creative thinkers.

By over-emphasizing academic classes and failing to provide courses for practical use in everyday living — Kayhi has made it difficult for us to adjust to making it on our own.

By failing to recognize our educational and vocational needs Kayhi has shown us that most of our learning will take place after we have left its doors.

Although our school was in many respects a disappointment, it was also a source of joy. Our sentimental bonds are strong. We feel torn between emotions of sadness at having to leave an institution that has been the major focus of our lives for the last four years; and, emotions of gladness and joy at achieving one of our life’s major mileposts. We become intoxicated by our pride and pseudo-mastery, believing ourselves to be suddenly equal, if not superior, to the masses that surround us. We are determined in our ideals and convinced of our ability to succeed no matter what obstacles are tossed before us. We stand ready to face life’s challenge.
GRADUATING

Seniors Stand Ready

Graduation time is naturally a time of deep thought and serious reflection for us all. Like it or not, our childhood and adolescence are behind us and we stand now at the threshold of our adult lives. Decisions of great consequences and far reaching effects must be made soon. Indeed, many have probably already been made. And our future success and happiness rest in those decisions. Has our four year experience at Kayhi adequately prepared us to make those decisions and deal effectively in a world of more rounded and mature individuals?

Kayhi, our small, close-knit high school has been both a benefit and a burden to our mental and emotional growth. Friendships with both teachers and fellow students were easy and close and will probably be remembered for years to come. Classes were small and teachers and administrators alike were habitually available to help us with any project or concern. But as the island we live on isolated us from many of the luxuries and evils of the "outside" world, Kayhi has insulated us from the chilling winds of life with a warm blanket of security. And now, almost without warning, that blanket is being removed.

Life must be experienced. It cannot be taught. In the final analysis each individual is limited only by the limits he himself imposes. But a great deal of practical background information and preparation is required to make intelligent life-affecting decisions. And in this respect Kayhi has possibly failed us.

Rising (Rising) adj. 1. Ascending, sloping upward, or advancing: a rising tide. 2. Coming to maturity; growing; emerging; The rising generation — n. 1. The act of someone or something that rises. 2. An uprising; insurrection; revolt.

"Is that little runt in high school? Whatever happened to respect for upperclassmen?" Words like these welcomed this year's freshmen, sophomores, and juniors. However, the classes of '75, '76, and '77 soon found their hard won status and identity and through their participation in school activities they generated enthusiasm throughout the student body.

The four years one spends in high school are perhaps the most transitional years in a person's life. The fear and frailty a freshman feels upon first entering Kayhi's doors soon disappears as he becomes acquainted with his surroundings. As freshmen few opportunities for choice existed. Most decisions were made by others, class schedules were rigidly fixed with required courses. As a freshman you're participation in activities was welcomed but your leadership was ignored. Still the first year in high school was not without rewards or privileges. Dances, basketball games, and wrestling matches offered excellent opportunities for meeting people and having fun. But being a freshman was still bottom-rung. The only way to go is up.

Opportunities and privileges naturally increase as one advances through the grades at Kayhi. Sophomores and juniors can pretty much freely choose the direction and content of their education. Privileges are increased and opinions and leadership are requested and respected. New responsibilities are added, yet, with each new responsibility comes a new privilege and in turn a new responsibility. The classes of '75, '76, and '77 are finding out what life is all about and emerging into the world of adulthood.

Bold and beautiful, really alive, we're the class of '75!
The Junior Class was striving to make a good impression of themselves to the seniors to show that they were proud to finally be upperclassmen. They were also trying to impress on the Freshmen and Sophomores that they are now upperclassmen and that they will be the mighty Seniors for the next year.

Juniors

The Junior Class contributed their share of work in drill team and in the music department. They have contributed greatly and have given a lot of support to the two groups. There are three girls from the Junior class making up a portion of the drill team. They are Shari Dillard, Christine Jackson, and Melody Zagar. They are hard working people as are all of the girls on the team.

A good part of the Concert Band, Stage Band, Chorus, Pep Band, and Kaytones consisted of hard working members of the Junior Class doing their share of the job in making each group sound the best that they were able. There were four members of the class that attended State Honor Band and State Honor Choir at the University of Alaska in Fairbanks, the first part of November.

For a student to grow and develop into an adult he needs recognition. Not only from his parents but his peers. A student needs to realize that he is part of a large body - the school. But also he is very much an individual.

His peers need to realize that although cliques are relatively important, an individual is more so. The school must meet a student's needs to enable him to grow into a responsible person.

Somewhere along the way the sophomore class was left out. Schools better start realizing this and trying to help sophomores.

Sophomores on a national basis have the highest dropout rate. Perhaps that is because the sophomore year is the most discouraging of all high school years.

Sophomores seem to be in between everything. When you are a freshman there is hazing and generally being called a freshman.

When you are a junior you are an upperclassman and able to attend the Junior Prom and the Senior Ball, and be a candidate for Homecoming Queen.

Sophomores have to be content with being junior cheerleaders or basketball players. You don't even have a choice of curriculum except for which kind of biology to take. BIG deal!

The universal goal of all sophomores is simply to become an upperclassman. They generally make it. When they become juniors things start looking up.
Sophomores Have Spirit

Sophomores were involved. Besides a large enrollment in typing and humanities and biology, they were involved in extra-curricular activities.

The sophomore class had the largest number of pep club members and lots of school spirit. Two of our varsity cheerleaders were sophomores, Jeri Walters and Harriet Hamilton.

Brian Bailey and Nancy Riggen were famous sophomores in November, as they gained recognition in the music field. Nancy was accepted in State Honor Choir and Brian was accepted in State Honor Band. These two sophomores traveled to Anchorage along with twelve others from Kayhi to participate in fifteen hours of practice ending in a concert.

The sophomores also played a big part in Kings Knights, the band and chorus, Kaytones, Wrestlers, Matmaids, B.R.A.'s, the Letterman's Club, and they even had one sophomore on the Kayhi Kings Varsity basketball team, Shawn Henderson.

Hopefully as juniors, the class of '76 will be as involved as they were this year.
Marty Says “Class of ’76 Trucks On”

Last year we were freshmen, this year who knows. One thing I do know is that I am proud to be what I am, a sophomore!

The glory of our first year in high school has worn off, and now we are on to bigger and better things.

No more physical science, now we have exciting (that’s right, folks) biology. No more algebra I, which was so—thrilling. Now we are into geometry, measuring circles and squares. You know I never realized how many squares Kayhi really has!

Now these classes may sound boring to you but to spice up our school day we have new vending machines which pass on to us objects of fantasm. With our empty pop cans we are the famous soccer team running down the field to score a goal. With our candy wrappers we are Jerry West and Wilt Chamberlin setting up a shot to win the N.B.A. tournament. Whoever said sophomores don’t have imagination has never seen our class at work in the halls at noon or at a break.

With all our many faults we are still what we were bred to be—sophomores.

We are the second lowest or the third highest class which ever way you want to look at it, but any way we look at it we’re sophomores through and through.

So sophomores look back proudly on your year as the class of ’76 trucks on.

"Full of spirit, we've got soul; "77" that's our goal . . . !"
We feel that the freshman year is the most important of all our high school years to come. During this time we will have tried to establish the type of person we will be and keep true to that goal. We have a goal, our year "77". We are going to make it the best because we believe in us.
The unique prospect of our first year of high school is one of learning from the mistakes of our fellow upper classmen, and it sparks a desire for our class to stand out.
We are individuals with hopes and plans. Receiving A's at report card time, becoming a senior one day, and maybe getting invited to the Junior-Junior Ball . . . The secret desires of freshmen are known to us all, to be accepted, to be popular, to do things we think are right and believe in. We want to know how we can be ourselves and still fit in. During this year, our first at Kayhi, we will have found our purposes and our limitations.
We are shedding our skin, we are getting older, but we are getting better and maturing too.
All the problems the world now faces, the energy crisis, pollution, war, inflation and drugs, are still going to be with us, the high school students, when we graduate and they are going to be up to us to help solve. We are a well informed group, with a freshness of spirit and by working together towards common goals, we may come up with a few answers. I think we, the class of "77" are mature in knowing what we can change and knowing what we have to accept because we cannot change it.
We have quite an array of students with many different talents; leadership, athletics, music, cheerleading, art, and many others. We have used these abilities to better our school and its spirit as best we could and hope to continue to do so by doing our best in all that we do, basketball, S.B.A., drill team, wrestling, studying or whatever.

Class of '77

We are out to see what the human race has to offer us and what we can give it in return. The distant future is so far away yet so near, I just know we'll be ready. We have time to learn and grow from our high school experiences. We have a lot of time before we graduate, three whole years, and we will enjoy them to their fullest. We didn't feel the discrimination of being freshmen as others have in the past. We didn't sit in the corner and act like "dumb freshmen" either. By the upperclassman respecting our opinions and making us feel important, or at least real, they have done something wonderful.
You know, the name of the ninth grade is really appropriate, the freshmen. This is our first year in high school, we are young and new and not yet ready for sole responsibility or leadership.
We have provided a type of spirit that should be contagious to the rest of the school. We have been looking for something better and we are looking for it in you, the upper classman . . . !

Freshmen Active in School Life

What the freshmen seem to have lacked in stature they made up for in their great drive and zest in all aspects of school life.

They have shown up in full force in athletics and in all school clubs. Larry Settle, Tom Hanks, and Matt Magnuson as well as the height of Shawn Richardson and the deadeye of Bimbo Mears all prove threatening in the basketball department. Coach Frank Adame had several fine freshmen, showing lots of drive and potential, turn out for wrestling and be expected them to fill the gaps on the team left by the graduating seniors.

Debbie Hamilton and Kim Tucker have shown promise in G.A.A. and Miss Marcia Marty, G.A.A. advisor says she sees future prospects in all her freshmen girls.

Kayhi's J.V. cheerleading squad was entirely made up of freshmen. All five girls Kim Schultz, Mardel Williams, Judi Gierard, Debbie Bransford, and Cheryl Nelson possess superb gymnastic abilities and seem to have no lack in imagination. These girls have the makings of first class cheerleaders.

The general consensus among the faculty, teachers, and students alike, is that this years class of freshmen, the class of "77" is a class to watch for in the three upcoming years, Kayhi and the City of Ketchikan will be seeing and hearing more of them.
Kayhi’s first Freshman Auction was a huge success raising over $400 for Pep Club and the Senior Class. The auction, sponsored by the Pep Club was held the second week of school in an effort to help control hazing. Hazing has been a prevalent event at Kayhi for several years, although it has never been approved by the school. This sort of initiation has been getting more and more out of hand in the last few years. The narrow escape from serious injury by one freshman last year sparked this years Pep Club and senior class to try a new approach to the issue, thus the auction. Considering it was the first such auction ever held, it proceeded quite well and seemed to serve its purpose as was evident in the marked decrease of hazing incidents. Mingled in with the bids of $2-$50, (the highest going for Patti Eastham), were the catcalls, whistles, and hooting of the upperclassmen as the freshmen were paraded across the stage. Also adding to the ruckus were the screams and yells of the freshmen as they were called forth to serve their terms or their sighs of relief as they were passed by. Freshmen were expected to serve their masters faithfully for the remainder of the school week but only during school hours. The next few days at Kayhi, following the auction, were classic; freshmen struggling down the halls beneath a stack of books or bowing good morning to all upper classmen were common place as was Bimbo Mears and his imitation of a candy cane.

Friday at weeks end, Pep Club sponsored a dance for the freshmen in appreciation of their participation in this event. Proceeds from the dance went to the freshman class.

The freshmen are to be commended for their cooperation and for the school spirit and great humor they showed in participating in the auction.

To the Freshmen

A freshman in Kayhi is like a comedian with a funny joke, they’re both corny. Your freshman year will soon be over and you will be a sophomore. Not that fun and games are over yet, but you are getting there.

One of these days you will be looking back at freshmen in all their glory, and you will laugh, just as we have laughed. You will know that all of the remarks and cuts aimed at you and your class were only said in fun.

We have never felt any malice toward you, we appreciate your freshness of spirit and the vim and vigor you still have, that once we all had. We see in you, something of ourselves as I am sure that someday, when you are seniors, you will see in that years freshmen.

The really good thing about it all is, that for every freshman that becomes a sophomore, a sophomore becomes a junior, a junior a senior, and a senior enters the world as a mature adult. Which is, whether you believe it or not, sometimes a break for the world.

So thanks to all freshmen, for the vitality, spirit, and laughs they bring to Kayhi, and for easing the pain of life.

The Seniors
“touring/transportation boom”

As the port of entry for the state for water-based transportation, Ketchikan welcomes each year the northbound fishing fleet, the cruise ships from nine lines, three barge lines and the state ferry system.

About 300 of the state ferry system’s 400 employees make their home in Ketchikan. One barge line has its home port in Ketchikan and the eight air taxi operators based in Ketchikan is more than anywhere else in Southeast Alaska.

The new 15 million dollar airport at Gravina Island has increased the speed and convenience in handling freight through Ketchikan.

It has also boosted the tourism industry although a shortage of hotel rooms has temporarily handicapped the visitor business. The number of tours arriving by plane has increased with the new airport.

More than 40,000 visitors stopped through Ketchikan on cruise ships this last season—up from under 20,000 just a few years ago.

And the state ferry system brings in even more visitors. More expansion of the ferry system is anticipated when the new 400-foot “Columbia” is on the run in late 1974 and when a smaller ferry begins service to Prince of Whales Island and Annette Island.

“mining in future”

Local mining activity primarily involves exploration work and research. More than 40 mines have operated in this district at one time or another since the first copper prospect was located on Prince of Whales Island in 1867. Companies involved in drilling to determine the extent of ore bodies in the area include El Paso Natural Gas, which has a full time office in Ketchikan, American Smelting and Refining, United States Steel, Paramount Mining, Newmont Metals and others who are big names in industry.
ADVERTISING

"Ketchikan and its Economy"

The Ketchikan business district is a rapidly growing commercial center concentrated in the heart of downtown Ketchikan. It stretches two miles westward along Tongass Avenue to the new ferry terminal complex located near the north city limits. This area serves as the trading and service center for the 13,000 residents of the Ketchikan Gateway Borough and many other smaller villages, camps and settlements in southern Southeast Alaska.

"Forestry is mainstay"

The mainstay of Ketchikan's burgeoning economy is the forest industry. Eighty percent of the timber cut in Alaska is cut in Tongass National Forest. In 1954 a modern multimillion dollar pulp mill began operations at Ward Cove, seven miles north of the city. Ketchikan Pulp Co. (KPC), one of the cleanest and best designed mills in the world today, produces daily 600 tons of high quality Tongass pulp. KPC is by far the largest private employer in the area employing more than 500 Ketchikan residents who operate three rotating shifts seven days a week. Twenty-three logging camps and five road building operations are needed to provide the necessary logs for the mill's pulp operation, for its Ketchikan Spruce Mills in downtown Ketchikan and for the Annette Island Mill also owned by the parent company of KPC.

The Alaska Loggers Association main office is in Ketchikan and 37 of 58 logging camps in Alaska supply out of Ketchikan. About one-half of the 3,000 people employed in the timber industry in Alaska, in the mills or in the woods, call Ketchikan home.

"Fishing still contributes"

Ketchikan was once known as the "Canned Salmon Capital of the World" with a dozen or more canneries in operation during the summer. Many canneries have closed; others have consolidated. Today only one cannery in the Ketchikan city limits remains in operation. Another continues at Ward Cove and several others are sprinkled about in the surrounding island areas. The community still is the supply point for the fishing fleets and still accounts for a respectable amount of the canned salmon pack when the salmon runs are good. Last season, the Ketchikan area was the only part of the state that did not experience a disastrous salmon season. Ketchikan area seine boats and plants were busy catching and processing 9.7 million salmon.

... and so there ain't nothing more to write about, and I am rotten glad of it, because if I'd a knowed what a trouble it was to make a book I wouldn't a tackled it and I ain't agoin to no more. But I reckon I got to light out for the Territory ahead of the rest, because Aunt Sally she's going to adopt me and sivilize me and I can't stand it. I been there before. —Mark Twain

not often enough
we reflect upon the good things.
And our thoughts always center around those we love.
And I think of all the people
who mean so much to me;
and for so many years have made me
so very happy.
And I count the times I have forgotten to say thank you and just how much I love them . . .
