The Senior Class of 2006 is ready for more! 2006!

The senior class of 2006 just can't wait for the parade to start. Just like all that enthusiasm! This class of 2006 definitely has to be one of the most spirited classes ever.

Zack Shanks, who is the thought of finally reaching senior year.

Holly Phaw, Erin Nugent, Allison Delano, and Marcus Rebeschek start their stuff.

Laurie Soderstrom, Tracy Anderson, Kimberly Boles, Krista Smestad, Mary Grace Scovil, and Mary Davy smile for the camera.

The Nutcracker

Homework

Student

Halloween
Kate Gallaway - My sophomore year in Algebra II, Pat was trying to convince me that Ty moved here from Africa. I wasn’t dumb and I knew that he didn’t move from Africa. But then it became a class effort trying to get me to believe that Ty moved from Africa. Finally I asked Ty if he was imported from Africa. What I meant though was did he really move from Africa. And of course he was sitting across the classroom so the whole class heard and started laughing.

Tallie Medel - What I really enjoyed about high school was the giant staircase in the commons, with the banisters to slide down and the stairs to fall down.

Shannon Charlton - My freshman year in choir, during a boring day, everyone was really bored and mad. So, being the cute little freshman that I was, started leaning on my choir to see how close I could get to the ground. And all of a sudden I fell back and my feet were in the air.

Ben Rosenfeld - The funniest story ever, well Zach Thompson and I were in a pickle fight at the dinner. We agreed that we would stop but I always have to win the last battle. So I put a pickle in my pocket and we headed out to the car. I sat right behind Zach and put the pickled pickle on his shoulder. Paul Thompson started chuckling up and I pulled Zach into every, I was actually not seeing the pickle right under his nose and said, “I throw a pickle.” We had a well heard laugh then we got chased down.

Ariele Manziel - One time, Cordova and I walked down the freshmen hall down to the cafeteria. There were all these people outside in the parking lot, staring their music. And there was this huge extension cord outside plugged into an outlet. Inside the building, Darien told me to put the plug in so I did. By the time I got back, Cordova had already run to the commons and tried to pull it completely off the main gym. All the people outside came in through the doors and they were in a mad rage. They were yelling and asking everyone who pulled the plug but they never found out it was me, so that was great.

Nichole Aaron - My first Winterball was a ton of fun, especially the last dance. My feet were hurting and throbbing, and they were just aching all night, and after all that I knew it was time to go.

Nick Rader - When I was a freshman I went to senior prom. Halfway through the dance the ladies were all over me. Beautiful girls. So by the end of the night all the senior guys wanted to beat me up, so I just did what was necessary, beat em up and took the ladies out partying. Wait, that happens every year.

Brandon Larson - Sophomore year during intermission at Music Fest, Josh Izatt was on top of the stairs and took his shirt off and swung it around his head while yelling, “Who wants to have sex with me?”

Lindsay Johnson - A memory of mine is getting a glimpse and being closer to my dream of being a supermodel...

Chris Rahn - I have no senior memories, it’s all just a big blur.

Tasha Schumacher - My most memorable moment is doing a 360 in my life, oh, and always being tardy everyday and every year.

Shari Fisher - I don’t remember high school.
Michael Marr - When I was an aide for Mr. Kinunen we skipped one day to go drive around and eat our lunch. It was awesome.

Holly Kyaw - I was the mascot for a basketball game. There was no chin strap, so the head was too big for me. At halftime a little kid came up and grabbed my ankles, and when I bent down to look at him the head fell off. The kid started screaming, "Mommy! The fish ate a person!"

Livia Ney - My most memorable moment will be to graduate.

Lynelle Mitchell - When I was in 10th grade we had English II with Mrs. Stimson, we were reading our books when I happened to look up and gasp, because I noticed an enormous amount of cornpit hair. I couldn't stop laughing, even to this day.

Ty Retcie - During Algebra II, sophomore year, Kate G. thought I was imported from Africa. Midway through class she turned and yelled across the room, "Ty, were you imported from Africa?" There was a moment of silence, then a riot of laughter. I don't think I've ever seen another human turn as red as Kate did.

Peter Amylon - When Ryan Richardson, Justin Gubatayao, and I egged Sarah Brandt-Erichsen's and Erin Traut's soccer stuff and car really bad.

Mike Swaim, Ben Phillips, & Kyle Howe - We stole a whole cheesecake from Culinary Arts.

Ryan Richardson - When Nate Norton hand cuffed himself to Peter Amylon and dragged him around.

Erin Traut - When my friends and I filled Tyrel Faber's Geo with three garbage bags of popcorn.
Claire Ragazzino -
I'm gonna turn the world into one giant nudist colony.

Tywah Dulin - I would make it mandatory for all math classes to offer free Odwalla drinks and Tim Horton's doughnuts, and I would stop the Bush family dynasty from touching the presidency ever again!

Rhianna Zastrow -
I will give everyone a pink flamingo and a lifetime supply of Butterfingers.

Sean Maynard - I'm going to be a dentist and come up with a solution that instantly regenerates teeth, so old people can have finally chew food without the use of dentures.

William Klein -
I would make everyone as beautiful as I am.

Brian DeBourquignon -
When my reign comes stagnation will be brought to a halt as the false sense of security is terminated.

How Are You Going

Sonia Christensen - I'm going to marry Chris Rahr and have hundreds of little Chris babies.

Vanessa DeLong -
I will buy shoes and bags for the homeless.

Kayleigh Hoyt - I will become the first female president and declare every Friday National Tampon War Day.

Casey Klask -
Make the world so everyone has rice balls.

Ben Voetberg - I will make every night be like Saturday night.

Josh Cohen - I would make everyone worship me like a god.
Johnny Steward - I'm going to change the world one girl at a time.

Waldy Kintana - I'd make sure there was an abundant supply of green leaves and flowers, so we breathe a lot of healthy oxygen.

Tyler Williams - I'm going to make all the trees money trees. So everyone will have money, and I'd keep a third of it all.

Bonniebelle Nacionales - I'm gonna be a dedicated firewoman and climb burning buildings and save old people. Then I'll dive into bushes to find lost pussy cats!

Jillian Gallyer - I will change the world by making everyone fall madly in love with me and putting a spell on them to do everything I command them to do. MWAHAHAHAHA!

Joy Demmert - Be the first girl to live on Uranus.

To Change The World?

Alex McDonald - I will change the world by making sure that Bush isn't re-elected.

Marcus Robecker - I will change the world by letting everyone in the world have no age requirements for everything.

Eugene Doyon - I will become President of the United States and declare world peace, and tattoo "Adam" on my brother's forehead.

Hilary Hook - I'd make everyone sit in a circle, rub their toes, and make them say "I Love You."

Chelsea Goucher - I will change the world by being a genuinely good person and loving everyone—even Claire's nudists.

Erin Nugent - I'm going to develop transporters so you can go anywhere in five seconds.

Kayhi Fight Song
This year is the first for the K-Highlites to begin each varsity game dancing to the Kayhi Fight Song. Bringing with energy and school spirit, they add to the excitement of the home crowd.

Asian Funk
The season opener used rice pots in the choreography, which made synchronization even more difficult. The music included clips from songs such as ‘Hong Kong Phooey’ and ‘A Night in Bangkok’, and the cartoon ‘Hong Kong Phooey’.

80s Mix (Pom)
The K-Highlites shook the crowd all right long with their pom routine. They brought everyone back to the 80s dancing to songs by AC/DC, Kiss, and Warrant.

Breathe
The ‘Breathe’ routine stands out from all the others this season, as it solely relies on choreography and does not use any props or pom. It incorporates jazz movements to hard rock songs and other trancing tunes. The outfits worn for the performance had flames on the arms and legs, which heavily accent all their movements.

Cowgirls
You heard it! Ride em, cowgirls! Blazing prairies like cowboys lasso, spin, and ropes of various sizes, the drill team had a routine worthy of a Superior rating at Region V. With all the eye-catching footwork and fast moving rope tricks, this routine is the hardest to perform, but definitely the most visually appealing.
Did you know?

- The team practices three times a week, with a total of 75 hours.
- All four coaches were part members of drill team.
- Every member is expected to give their all during practice as if they were performing in front of a real crowd.
- Last year drill team had a total of seven members, but earned an excellent rating at the 2003 Southeastern Basketball Tournament here in Kentucky.
- Drill team has ten returning members.
- This is the first year in Kayle history that the drill team has ever danced to the school fight song.
- The biggest team in K-Highline history was in 1992 with 36 girls.
- Synchronism is the hardest aspect of dancing.
- The drill team season lasts from October to March.
- Drill team performs their routine for the school song for every home basketball game.
- Much work goes into choreographing dance routines. It takes a little more than a month to learn each routine and perfect them. Throughout the whole season, they come up with an average of four routines including one for the Region V Basketball Tournament.

William "Eli" Galpay
I like Willow because it is so fresh. It's the hottest class around. I've learned a lot in yearbook and it has dramatically changed my life. And that's why I like yearbook.

Making a yearbook is very expensive. Did you know that one yearbook costs around $30,000 to produce? Every yearbook after the first one costs $15,000 and we usually print about 950 yearbooks every year. This year's cover consists of gold signatures over a black background, which costs around $2,000. And finally, selling all the yearbooks from Willow, CA costs about $500. If they meet all their deadlines, the Supplement is free of charge, otherwise, it costs around $1,600.

Aaron Manuel
By being in Willow, I got to go to all sorts of school events for free, all I had to do was bring a camera and say "I was in yearbook." And I didn't even have to take pictures. It saved me a lot of money. With the money I saved, I was able to buy tons of food and eat during my idle hours and yearbook class.

Writing a fully staffed for every page shown in the yearbook is important, but writing the correct spelling of names is even more important, which is exactly what senior Aaron Manuel is doing. Correct spellings of names on the fully staffed make it so much easier for the index people to index them in the index. This year's index people are seniors Aaron Manuel, Rohini Hart, and Leann Knaun.

This year's Mrs. Complete's first year being a yearbook advisor. Being a former yearbook student herself, she understands the frustration of deadlines so she works hard to get the deadlines at once!

Senior Kimberly Bolen is this year's Ad Seller. Calling and selling to numerous business managers is a lot of work and very time consuming, and senior Kimberly Bolen surpassed our expectations and accomplished tons of months for this year's budget.

Kimberly Miller
The best part of yearbook is taking pictures for my pages and creating pages. It is all fun! I have the power to put fun pictures of myself in the book and have other people's pictures out. I am the Yearbook Goddess!

Mary Grace Sevilla
Willow is a super-duper fun class. We have pizza parties every week, and we eat ice cream, drink root beer, and play "Twister" all the time. People should get in this class next year so they can find out for themselves just how fun it is.

Our 2004 Willow "Signature" is made up of 192 pages in a 9 1/2" trim size. Yearbooks are printed 10 pages at a time on large sheets of paper called "Signatures." Each side of a signature contains 8 pages called a "Multiple." Our yearbook has 22 signatures in color, 10 signatures in black & white, and 10 signatures of World Book to conform to our old one.

Senior Lina Lee Mitchell pretends to help senior Mary Grace Sevilla work on Ad Sales. But Ad Sales are one hard to work on and very time consuming, and that's something senior Lina Lee Mitchell would rather not deal with.

Matt Boyd
Oh my god. Willow is great! I love the way we get to work with others and take pictures. There aren't that many fun things we also get to leave class to sell ads and design pages to be put in the yearbook. This class is so fun that there is no need to explain it.
Junior Luana Thieding tries to keep some sense of the frenziness Matt Boyd so let loose around during class time. Going around is great, but not when you have deadlines to meet!!
How Does SBA Affect You?

"SBA is great! It gives the student body the chance to express themselves... I think it's wonderful to get everyone involved... SBA is a magical thing and I LOVE it! Oh yeah... Psyche it up!" - Senior Jade Cutler

"SBA affects my life during lunches. I am going to run for President next year." - Junior Jared Fudge

"SBA doesn't really affect my daily life other than the dances... If they do organize dances, then they should organize a little better ones." - Junior Crystal Mann

"SBA doesn't really affect me. I could care less about what they do." - Senior Nickolee Hill

"I'm not exactly sure what SBA does for me. I mean they have got to do something & I'm sure they have tried to put some sense in the girls bathroom... SBA doesn't do much for me." - Sophomore Kirsten Pinsky

"They organize dances, they look like they do a lot of work. But it doesn't really affect my daily life." - Sophomore Alex McDonald

"SBA affects my life during lunches. I am going to run for President next year." - Junior Jared Fudge

"How do SBA affect my life? Well they run the school, I have no choice..." - Senior Shannon Charlton

There is the Pep Club. There are more than 80 members (not everyone showed for the picture. 25 of these lucky people were picked to go to Southeast Basketball Tournament in Mt. Edgecumbe this year.

Right: Senior Sara Schroeder works the pop machine to get her points so she can go to Southeast.

Right: Sophomore Janarie Aho is ever less happy to work concessions, as long as she gets her free holidays.

Left: The Aho sisters goof around as they work on Kings Court.

Left: Seniors Erica Johnson and Mary Grace Sevilla help make designs, but they’re not just doing this for fun, they’re doing this to accumulate enough points to go to Region V this year.

Above: Junior Jessica Bentley and sophomores Jessica Graham are committed to doing concessions and serving customers with great, wide smiles. Senior Jenny Hoyt eats as much of the food as she possibly can.

Loud & Proud. The KHS Pep Band adds to the excitement that happens at the basketball games.

sophomore Jamarie Alba are proud to show the final outcome of a busy spent working on Kings Court. Many others came to help out, creating the common like a castle.

Senior Danny Cook keeps the beat going as the Pep Band plays the Kayhi Fight Song so the Drill Team can dance to it.

Senior Jillian Golby, sophomore Jamarie Alba, junior Romano Manabat and Tiffany Alba to work making this year's Kings Court. It's people like them that make pep club very spirited and committed to keeping up the school spirit.

Pep Club is fun. My favorite part of it is doing concessions. I get free food and free pops by working concessions. I don't even do anything. I just stand there, sell and let everyone else crowd me do the work. I never do concessions during varsity games. I only do it during JV and C games. I don't get into the games less free. But sometimes we belong to pep club doesn't get it was hire for free, and that's when I bring my camera and say I'm taking pictures for the yearbook.

Aaron Manuel, 12

"I like getting to dress up in school colors and cheer for the team."

Lauren Blasing, 12

"I like going to the games and cheering for our teams. Concessions was fun, but I'd rather watch the games. And being chosen to go to Southeast for the 3rd time is great too."

Mary Grace Sevilla, 12
Drama

Why I’m in Drama...

"It’s fun and I get to hang out with different people. I get to travel to different places with my friend that are in Drama and Debate. You can be a freak and it’s okay.”
- Kirsten Plyaw

"It gives me a chance to be someone that I’m not everyday, even though my multiple personalities get in the way.”
- Archie Ionzillo

"You pick out pieces, work on them all year, and then perform them for judges.”
- Frances Klein

"Meets are great, but no word! I met lots of other Alex. It’s awesome to get to travel and everyone there is really open and fun. I spent lots of time hanging out with everyone and bonding.”
- Alyx Hatfield-Evans

"It’s an activity where you can act anyway you like and the meets are tons of fun.”
- Katheryn Brooks

"In Drama you travel to different places in Southeast and compete in different events. The events are monos, solo improvisation, dramatic interp, novelty theatre, duct, and duet interp. We compete so we can go to state and compete with those around the state. The way you qualify for state is you place twice and give a command performance. This is my third and final year in Drama. It is really fun and you meet lots of interesting people. If you are interested at all in acting you should be in Drama. You can yell and scream and no one looks at you weird. You just say I’m in Drama and people right away understand. This year we were a big Drama and we had three new coaches. Frances Lash, who played Ava Annie in Oklahoma last fall. Elizabeth Nelson, she is an actor and director. Ellen Putton, she is the old Drama teacher and actress, a minister, and very cool guy. I joined Drama because it has been my dream since I was three to be a screenwriter. I have learned a lot from Drama. We travel with the Debate team and do some events with them. The Debaters are just as crazy as Drama people. We do plays and get covered in makeup. We were that was just mess in the Ward of Oz. I was the wicked witch of the west and I had to wear green makeup all over my face and hands. It only came off with Ajax! Drama is very fun and every crazy person should join.”
- Mary Davey

No one could tell how hard Debate can be just by looking at care-free sophomores like Tyler Mortensen and Kamille Law.

Math Tutoring Center

At the time of publication, the following students were listed as math tutors: Seniors Kimberly Boles and Charity Orriss, sophomores Jason Mitchell, Amanda Morris, and Sarah Nicholas.

About the Math Tutoring Center

The Math Tutoring Center is a new idea to Kake. It provides an opportunity for students to not only receive help in all levels of math, but also to participate as a tutor themselves. The center is open a few days a week after school. It was started after the need for math tutoring was expressed. The tutoring center offers tutoring to students at every level of math and provides another facet for service to our community.

Mr. McPadden

I enjoyed teaching Economics during my first year here at Kayci. My class had a good sense of humor and was lots of fun to work with. One of the highlights of the experience was helping students organize a corporation and market a product to sell to the public. We had some success selling Marigone water bottles embossed with a Kayci logo. I am looking forward to teaching the class again in the future.

Andrew Komoto
Marketing VP.

As Vice President of Marketing, I had the opportunity to help make vital decisions in our company's endeavors and was able to acquire knowledge of what I might expect in my future plans with business.

Byron Love
Finance VP.

Working at the Finance Vice Presidency, I learned that finance is an important backbone to any successful company.

Randy Gabor
Human Resources VP.

Being Vice President of Human Resources is a very challenging position. You are entrusted to keep important documents about the company. I also kept track of company meetings, documents, what is being discussed and what is being done about the company. It was fun being Vice-President of human resources. I would love to do it again.

"My favorite part of economics class is Mr. McPadden's story telling. He tells us all about his life, experiences, and everything. He always tells about when he was in college and how he got his first job. He always does a good job of making us laugh." - Mary Grace Stevino '12

"I liked the educational economics movie we watched, especially the part where they ask the question, 'Do you want a carrot?' and they get a $10 bill as a reward. It was fun watching."

Jennifer Holcomb '11

"Selling water bottles was fun. It was a fun challenge. People were happy to make them buy our product. We got $2.50 for each bottle we sold, and I brought two hours of the stock to the store. I ended up getting $170. I sold a total of 68 bottles, which was a total of $170. I made a profit of $550. I was a little surprised."

The jazz choir sang their little hearts out during one of their amazing, uplifting performances.

Check out these future runway models in their spiffy, perfectly pressed costumes.

These fine performers harmonize every note to perfection.

Above the audiences were stunned when they heard the melodious voices of the jazz choir.

Seniors Luna Davis, Jason Pfeifer, freshman Adam Fitzgerald and senior Julio Saldivia work on their good posture skills as well as playing loud!

Our wish for you

Take our hands for they reach out of you any time you need them. Take a moment each day to reflect on what you have and how fortunate you are. Take a moment to reflect on what you want and how capable you are. Take the time to do things that bring you pleasure and self-satisfaction. Take resources available to you and put them to use for your own enjoyment. Take the kindness others show you as a measure of their high regard for you. Take the insensitivity others may demonstrate as an indication that their own self-esteem may need building. Take comfort in the realization that although you may not be or have all you want, you are working at it the best way you can. Take pride in your individuality, your special ways, the beautiful person you are. Take our words as loving advice, because we want only the best for you. Take our love with you wherever you go. It has been and always will be yours.

Love always, Dad and Mom
Paul Bongaard

KETCHIKAN YOUTH COURT
K.Y.C. MISSION:
Restorative Justice begins by bringing together the community to promote accountability through positive peer pressure.

Vision:
We empower youth to make positive contributions to your community through our program of Restorative Justice by emphasizing individual accountability and peer interaction.

K.Y.C. members helped at local Chamber of Commerce, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Lions Club, Eagles Club, Blue Berry Festival, Halloween Faire, Revilla Island Prevention Coalition, Health Faire, Winter Arts Faire, and many other events. It was a jammed packed year, but overall the members made a few new friends and made a difference in the quality of life in Ketchikan.

Kayhi Fight Song

We pledge allegiance to dear old Kayhi
To give us power to keep our true colors high
Push on to greater glory
So that her honor may never die.

Then sing a song to Kayhi
We give honor unto her name
Proud her colors waving
Every banner will tell her fame.
Tra, la, la, la, la, la.

Maroon and White are fighting
To bring home a victory
We pledge our hearts to Kayhi
And forever our loyalty.

Kings!
