Secret Agents of 2007
James Bond

Unlike the previous years before 2007, there was no rain on our parade! The weather was hot and sunny, just like our senior spirit! Live music by KTCM, very own and talented Alex Longo, added to the already amazing festivities.

"James Bond 007" was the fun theme which allowed us to sport plenty of water guns. The constant squirting kept us from melting in the heat! Having always been a close knit class, this was a fantastic way to start our senior year - the best memories for one more 4th of July.
How Could you Forget...

Senior Memories...

One day in French, Eric was making fun of Emily for not being able to catch a pencil, so I threw a pencil at him and it stuck to his forehead! When it fell out, we told him it started to bleed but he didn’t believe us. When he realized that it actually was bleeding he freaked out and ran to the bathroom crying! Oh my goodness, French class was ARIOUS!!!

Kyle Stout

My favorite memory of high school would have to be this past year when a select few of us painted our chest for the Barrow football game. We ran around the whole field yelling for our team to win, and when we did win we all rushed to the football field. It was awesome, we even made Doug take off his shirt and paint his chest. It was great.

Crystal Reno

Well, so my junior year in basketball, we were playing a game against Sitka High School. It was the 4th quarter and I was dribbling the ball down the court, and thought I heard our home bench yelling 10 seconds left, so I hucked the ball at the 3 point line. The ball bricked off the glass hardcore and I was surprised the glass didn’t break. Then I realized that there was actually 1min and 20 seconds left in the game. It was embarassing.

Nick Foote

I remember housing about eight kids from K-town when I lived in JU-NO (yee boi) and we met up with Sonne. We got bored so we grabbed an Ouija board and candles and had a seance at the cemetery. Just as things got quiet, a black cat jumped onto Sonne and Adam. We all screamed and ran for our lives, leaving all of our stuff behind. Is that an omen or is that an Omen?

Kaila Cowan

One night, a few people and I were at Kelsey’s house, but with her tiny driveway we couldn’t fit all of our cars, so Vanessa and I parked at Texaco. When we went to retrieve them the next day, we came to find that they had BOTH been towed, so we made our way to the towing place. It turned out to get them back, it would cost her $176 and me $213. Well, after Vanessa paid and went on her merry way, I spent some time giving the guy the guilt trip in hopes that he would bring down the price. Luckily, it worked, and I got away with only paying what I could round up between the two of us, $46!

Anna Taro

Well, a couple years back, Richie, Irene, Heather and I decided to go to the Coast Guard’s haunted ship on Halloween. I guess you could say I get pretty scared easily, and I wasn’t too excited to go. Anyway, I made it out okay and was pretty happy until I looked down and saw a man with a chainsaw. As much as I avoided his eyes we eventually looked at each other, so he thought it would be funny to wait for me to get by him and revved up his chainsaw. Next thing I remember is sprinting up the boat ramp with this man chasing me.

Jamie Edwards

One day, Erika Wright and I were in my car in front of the mall bumping to that “Juicy” song, and this 40 year old guy in very tight wranglers was in front of my car dancing and shaking his butt and beckoning us out to dance with him. After we made it very clear to him that we didn’t want to, he walked away, turned around, twisted his hips and made smoking signs! Then he finally went away. We saw him later, honked, and waved then he went on his merry way shaking his behind. We named him "Wrangler" and haven’t seen him since.

So... one fine day we decide to take a hike. After deciding not to swim because of spectators, we began our descent back to civilization. After a long exhausting hike, we were hoping to return to some area to rest and eat. But sadly enough we came across a problem. The End Talk to us for more information.

Last year Heather Gatti, Elizabeth Harney, & I went to paint the Senior Hill. We parked at the top of the hill & started our mission. I ran down the hill dumping paint over all the seniors' names, while Heather & Elizabeth followed behind spreading the paint around. We saw a car & realized it was a cop car & ran in the ditch. The cop turned roan & pulled us out of the ditch. A car drove by, through the paint. The cop said, "Oh great that car has paint on it now, I probably do, too." Heather being the sweet innocent girl she is said, "Uh, your CAR IS WHITE!" He let us go but not with our spray paint.

I went to Costa Rica during spring break '06 with a bunch of my friends. One of our visits was to San Jose. Mr. Bernaldi and McLaren let us venture off into the city. So Jacob Alguire, Madlyn Jensen, Heather Bergeron, Chelsea Goucher and I were in a taxi with the craziest driver. He drove super fast through the narrow streets & he listened to T.V. show theme songs. We all got a good laugh out of it. We all came to the conclusion that San Jose taxi drivers are nuts! GOOD TIMES!

One day I was driving with some awesome people by the mall. My friend "Beaver" decided to adjust her rear view mirror by flipping the switch at the bottom of the mirror. When she flipped it, the mirror fell off. When I realized what happened I laughed and asked her if she just ripped her mirror off, she said, "no," in a very calm voice, "I pressed the eject button." I laughed for a good five minutes straight and then told her, "rear view mirrors don't have eject buttons."

This summer Sean, Elizabeth, Emily & I decided that we were hungry for some fresh Alaskan squirrel. We set out on our adventure to kill the poor defenseless animal on Sunday morning. We searched far & wide, & found none until we reached the mating grounds of Ward Lake. Having spotted several specimens, we hid in the woods till a stupid one approached. Sean, being the manly man that he is, prepped the BB gun & shot it right between the eyes. SERIOUSLY! We jabbed the squirrel on the stick & roasted it. We each got a piece of meat.

Student Life
Lars Fischer, Senior from Sao Paulo, Brazil
I really like Ketchikan because the people here are friendly. I like to have conversations with them a lot. This was also the first time in my life that I saw snow. What a real experience it was for me! In Brazil we have school from October to July and our grades are only numbers — we don’t name them, like Seniors. Through the exchange I can meet lots of new people, and because I get to live with four different families, I’ll experience the Alaskan lifestyle from different perspectives.
Thanks for my great time,
Lars

Alexandra Davis, Senior, went to Brazil 2005-2006
Spending a year in Brazil was an experience that I will never forget or regret. It opened my eyes to a whole new way of thinking. The cultural aspect made me realize how interesting this world can be. The most difficult part of my exchange was leaving my close friends, the chaotic language, and my overall life. Although my experience in Brazil is behind, I know I will return again. It’s inevitable.

Pavarnat Sirihan, Senior from Thailand
The youth exchange program is the best adventure I have ever had. I have been looking forward to this all my life. I would recommend youth exchange to anyone. I have been exchanging for four months, and I have never regretted it. I learned a lot of new things from being an exchange student. I have also made new friends. Two new friends were the best thing that developed from my exchange experience. It is interesting that both of them are Asian like me. I traveled from the other side of the world to meet people who have the same origin like me. Is that not hilarious? Anyway, I have also made new American and European friends. I like all of my new friends a lot. I am glad to have friends like them. I feel so sorry for those who don’t have the opportunity to be here like me. It is a pity that there were people who had this opportunity, but they decided not to take it. They don’t have any idea what they missed. No adventures would compare to an exchange experience.

Sarah Harford, Senior. Went to Sao Paulo, Brazil 2005-2006
I never imagined myself as an exchange student, yet somehow my sophomore year I found myself applying for a year abroad. Before I knew it, my plane was landing in Sao Paulo, Brazil. It's hard to sum up everything I experienced while I was there, from my home ‘town’ of 17 million people, to living on a boat in the Amazon jungle, to spending months at a time on gorgeous beaches, and all while trying to become fluent in Portuguese, a language most Brazilians will admit they don't even know how to speak correctly. Oh yeah, I occasionally went to school, too. But the people, food and lifestyle in Brazil was nothing short of amazing. Bottom line — I thought I'd be missing out a lot by leaving for my junior year, but my exchange was MORE than worth it. Quite the perspective change.
Viva Brazil!

Felix Gratz, Senior from Germany
It's hard to sum up all the amazing experiences I've had in Ketchikan. Before I came here I couldn't imagine how it would be as an exchange student, especially in Alaska. I really have enjoyed my stay here, while trying to improve my English skills. I have a lot of fun and I like the Alaskan nature a lot. But I'm still waiting to see a real Alaskan bear—! It's just cool to stay in a foreign country for a year and meet all the friendly people and "try out" their lifestyle. All in all, my exchange year is a lifetime experience, that I never wanted to miss!

Mira Wilhelm, returned Junior from France
Last year I spent Christmas vacation in Montreux, France with my host family's grandparents. I'd been in France for 3 months and I was still totally lost when I tried to communicate. I'd been damn bored the entire vacation because with only 2 Sponge Bob loving French kids to hang out with, my only escape was to go wandering around outside in the snow. Unfortunately I'd never been to that area of France before and with 2 feet of snow on the ground it was easy to get lost. So I got lost... and ended up in a town I didn't know... with no money, no phone numbers, and only a limited French vocabulary. I wandered around trying to figure out where I was, and in this state of confusion, a person pulled up next to me and asked me for directions. Well at least I looked like I fit in! I miraculously found the house I was staying in—by sheer luck. Although difficult at times, this exchange was definitely a great learning experience for me!

Madita Weise, Senior from Germany
My name is Madita and I'm from Germany. I live in a suburb of a beautiful city in the north called Hamburg. I'm a senior this year and I'm so glad that I came to Ketchikan and met all these wonderful people. Volleyball was definitely one of the best parts so far. Cheerleading is awesome, too, and I hope that I'm going to make the soccer team! Everything is so exciting. When the sun actually comes out, you guys have the most amazing landscape, I've ever seen. I'm having the best time of my life. Thank you guys. Madita

"Pom" was the first routine of the K-Highites season. The girls were looking sharp in their sleek black and maroon Kings uniforms, and they were hitting each move with precision and style. The music was upbeat and energetic, and the girls made sure they showed the crowd that Kayhi was their "Number One Spot!"

This year the K-Highites decided to try something new and do a "Military" routine. It has been almost 10 years since they've done this, and the captains of the team choreographed it themselves. They mixed some basic marching and sharp moves with some fresh and funky military-style choreography. The routine included some crazy visuals that made the crowd scream!

The "Hip Hop" routine was definitely one that made you PUMP IT - LOUDER! It was performed to a medley of Black Eyed Peas songs, from "Let's Get it Started" to "My Humps." The girls' camo outfits really showed how they were ready to help the crowd go "bear hunting!" They marched on military style and busted out with hip hop flare.

The Novelty routine that the girls performed this year had a Flintstones theme. Half the girls were Freds, and the other half were Wilma. It's definitely something new and different, but it was filled with energy and all smiles. The girls enjoyed dancing together and "yabada-yabadooing" onto the floor.

Jobs are Alaska's Future

What good is my life if I don't try to make things a little easier for someone else!?!?

Anyone can get stuck in an elevator--It's knowing how to have fun while you're stuck that counts!

Good Luck Seniors!
You've taught us a lot!
Now it's time to pass the torch!

Williwaw is NOT just another class -- it's a spectacular experience, with exceptional students!

The REAL faces of Kayhi
At the KINGS COURT!

Pop Club Members: Tore Singstad, Jodi Gatti, Sarah Eichner, Crystal Alba, and Lucas Updike get pumped up for the games! Way to go!
This year’s Clarke Cochrane Christmas Classic was definitely one to remember. For the first time in Kayhi history both the boys and girls basketball teams were victorious and won the championship games. The Kings crushed the Philomath Warriors, and the Lady Kings won with an amazing finish against the Lady Tides from Gig Harbor. This year’s tournament was certainly one for the record books!

Thank you to David Albertson for the Girls Basketball pictures!
Homecoming Court

Freshmen Prince and Princess: Blake Williams and Rebecca Bowers.

Sophomore Prince and Princess: Bethany Updike and Blake Bowsley.

Top Row: King and Queen nominees: Sarah Harpold and Nick Foote, Ryan Gray and Elizabeth Jagusch, Katie Keene and Adam Thompson.
